Welcome to the FY24 NCARB Annual Report

For NCARB, Fiscal Year 2024 has been a year of transformative growth, characterized by strategic collaboration and thought leadership spanning both the architectural profession and broader regulatory landscape. We have diligently worked to ensure our programs and services reflect best practices toward supporting our Member Boards and our customers, responded to emerging industry trends, and embraced innovative approaches to serve our stakeholders more effectively. Though we're proud of several organizational initiatives completed this year, we also look forward to others that are just beginning to take shape. Our commitment to going further for our members, customers, and the public is detailed in this report, which highlights progress made in each of the core objectives identified in NCARB's Strategic Plan.

Thanks to the commitment of the entire NCARB community, we're celebrating several milestones achieved in Fiscal Year 2024—including the reinstatement of older passed examinations for more than 6,000 licensure candidates as a result of 2023's retirement of the Architect Registration Examination® (ARE®) five-year rolling clock policy. We also released the 12th edition of our NCARB by the Numbers annual data report, with an expanded examination section highlighting the impact of NCARB's free practice exams on candidate pass rates. Further data from NCARB's annual data publications have shed light on the both the time toward, and attrition from, licensure. This data has aided our efforts to address issues of equity and access, elevating the need for endorsing paths that may not include accredited education. During this past fiscal year, NCARB's Board of Directors released a statement committing to developing a framework for multiple "Pathways to Practice," recognizing that a variety of educational and career paths can position individuals to qualify for an architectural license.

Additionally, NCARB's volunteers worked throughout the year to put forward several resolutions, including resolutions to expand access to two of NCARB's Mutual Recognition Agreements (MRAs)—the Australia/New Zealand/U.S. MRA and the Canada/Mexico/U.S. Tri-National Agreement—allowing more qualified architects to pursue international licensure through these agreements. Our staff also continued critical outreach to students, licensure candidates, and architects, raising awareness regarding NCARB's mission and improvements to our core programs. NCARB's advocacy efforts continue to evolve as we work to support fair regulations and partner with both our Member Boards and other organizations on issues related to the built environment. Throughout these collaborative efforts, we have kept an eye on the future of how the profession will protect the public so that we can take full advantage of the growth opportunities ahead.

YEAR IN REVIEW

In FY24, NCARB's Board of Directors and senior staff leadership worked to uphold the Council's Strategic Plan—which features three strategic goals: facilitate licensure, foster collaboration, and maximize value—and measure its success. NCARB established six strategic objectives that identify the opportunities and challenges necessary to achieve these goals.

The FY24 Annual Report is structured around these six strategic objectives to better reflect the progress that NCARB is making toward accomplishing its mission and goals in services of its members and the public:

- Program and Service Excellence
- Awareness in the Architecture Community
- Stakeholder Systems, Tools, and Resources
- Data Analysis and Thought Leadership
- Advocacy Support, Outreach, and Influence
- Future-Focused Research and Development

Learn more about NCARB's initiatives for its members, volunteers, licensure candidates, and architects throughout FY24—and understand how they fit into the bigger picture of NCARB's Strategic Plan.

PROGRAM AND SERVICE EXCELLENCE

NCARB is committed to upholding the high standards of innovation and accountability in our efforts to support the regulation of architecture. We continuously improve and update our programs and services in response to feedback from our members, customers, and volunteers—fulfilling our Program and Service Excellence objective and keeping the organization focused on moving forward. By regularly refreshing our core services, NCARB pushes policy and regulation updates forward to ensure they align with current best practices and are in the best interest of the NCARB community.

Over the past several years, NCARB has made a string of improvements to the Architect Registration Examination® (ARE®). In FY24, we measured the impact of those changes as we marked the one-year anniversary of NCARB's retirement of the rolling clock policy. Through this policy change, NCARB removed the five-year expiration timeframe for passed ARE divisions and reinstated previously expired ARE 4.0 divisions—bringing more than 3,000 candidates closer to licensure. NCARB also made new improvements to the exam to keep it aligned with current best practices, including the retirement of quantitative-fill-in-the-blank (QFIB) item types, an update to code-related items on the exam, and enhancements to exam security policies.

In addition, NCARB continued to work to expand international opportunities, promoting the newly ratified mutual recognition agreement (MRA) with our United Kingdom counterpart and refreshing existing agreements with our partners in Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and Mexico. These updated agreements align with NCARB's efforts to expand pathways to practice by ensuring international reciprocity is accessible for all individuals, including those without a degree from a National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB)-accredited program.

Members of NCARB's Item Development Subcommittee worked throughout the year to develop updated exam content for the ARE.

IMPACT OF THE ROLLING CLOCK RETIREMENT

In May 2023, NCARB retired the exam's five-year rolling clock policy and implemented a new score validity policy. Under the new policy, a passed exam division remains valid throughout the delivery of the exam version under which it was taken, as well as the next exam version. As part of this policy change, NCARB also reinstated the validity of all passed ARE 4.0 divisions taken between 2008 and 2018 for candidates seeking licensure from a jurisdiction that did not have the rolling clock requirement specified in its rules and regulations. At the time of the retirement in May 2023, 14 licensing boards had a jurisdiction-specific rolling clock requirement.

One year after the retirement of the ARE rolling clock policy, NCARB looked back at the impact of the change so far. By May 2024, the retirement of the rolling clock had resulted in 3,163 candidates receiving at least one reinstated ARE 5.0 credit, with hundreds receiving three or four credits. As more jurisdictions moved to adopt the new score validity policy, NCARB reinstated more than 6,600 exam divisions.

Over the course of the year, NCARB continued to work with the Member Boards with a five-year rolling clock policy at the jurisdictional level. By the end of FY24, all but two of those licensing boards were able to update their laws and rules to eliminate their jurisdictional rolling clock-type policies, with the remaining two on track to remove their requirement in FY25.

ARE 5.0 UPDATES

NCARB's ongoing efforts to improve ARE 5.0 include regular collaboration with our psychometricians and hundreds of volunteer architects to ensure the examination aligns with assessment best practices and current architectural practices.

Retirement of QFIBS

In February 2024, NCARB retired quantitative-fill-in-the-blank (QFIB) item types from the exam based on recommendations from our psychometric consultants. Evolving testing best practices indicated that other item types used on the ARE assess candidates' qualifications more effectively. As a result, NCARB's item writing volunteers updated exam items that included calculation questions to be formatted as one of the exam's other four item types: multiple choice, check-all-that-apply, hotspot, or drag-and-place. The exam objectives covered by each division, as well as the tools and resources available to you during the exam, remained the same.

Code Updates

At the same time, NCARB also updated all code-related items to reference the 2021 International Code Council (ICC) family of codes and related standards rather than the 2018 family referenced previously.

This change ensures candidates are equipped with the competencies that align with current architectural practices. When necessary, NCARB provides excerpts from the 2021 ICC family of codes as reference on case studies.

New Security Practices

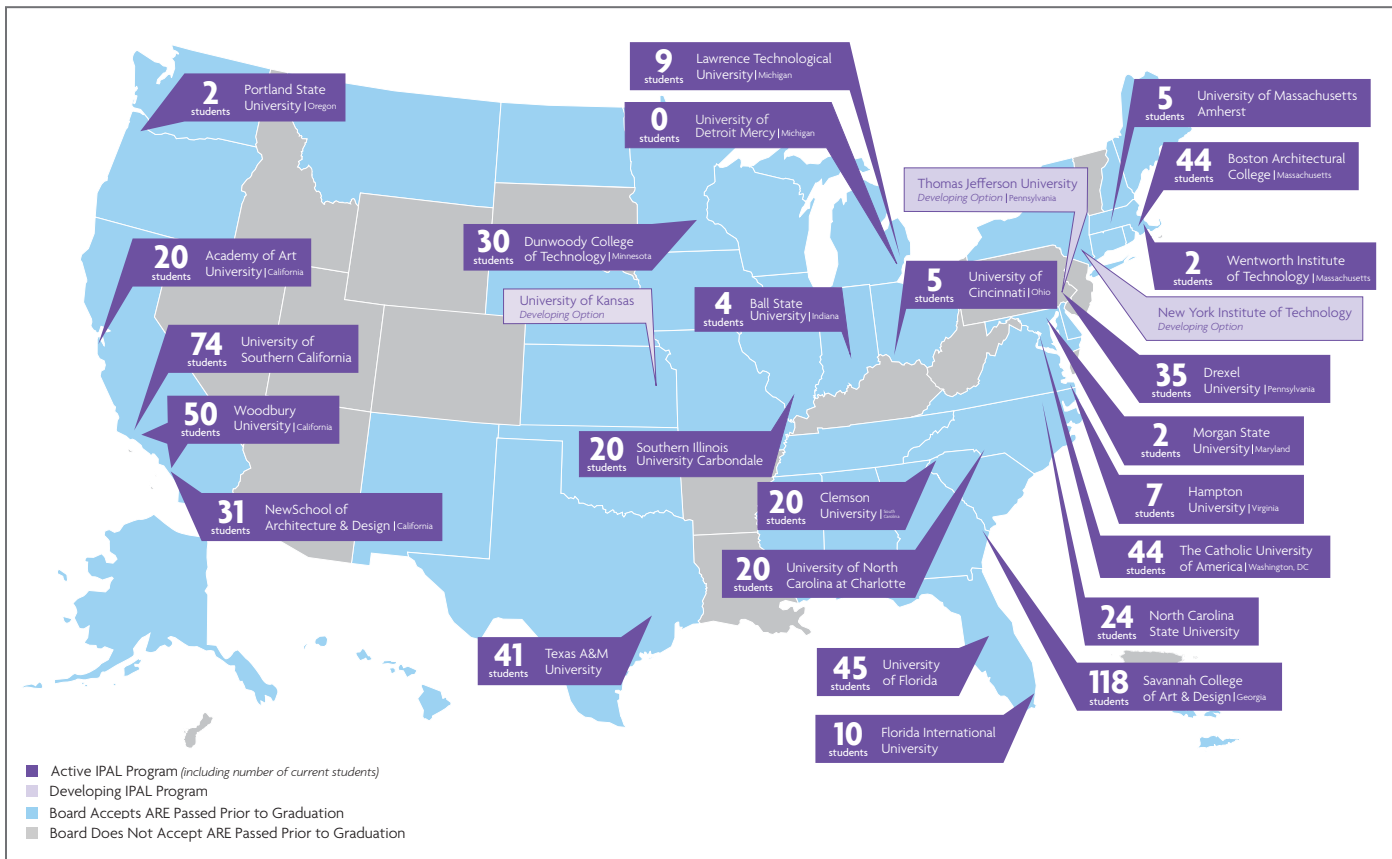

In FY24, NCARB continued its efforts to enhance data forensics to protect the integrity of exam scores, implementing new protocols to identify and address candidate misconduct. As part of this change, official score reports for candidates are now analyzed for misconduct before they are released, a process that typically takes 7-10 days. Provisional test results are still available to candidates at the end of their exam administration.

To help candidates understand what is and isn't acceptable before, during, and after exam administration, NCARB hosted a webinar on exam security policies and provided updated resources on exam security. In addition, NCARB launched the ARE security tip line, where individuals who know of or suspect exam misconduct can contact NCARB anonymously. Candidates are obligated to report suspected misconduct to NCARB by contacting us at AREsecurity@ncarb.org.

IPAL UPDATES

NCARB offers the Integrated Path to Architectural Licensure (IPAL) to architecture students, providing an opportunity for them to complete the Architectural Experience Program® (AXP®) and take the ARE while earning an architecture degree from an accredited program. Overlapping these requirements allows students to become eligible for licensure upon, or shortly after, graduation.

IPAL is offered within existing programs accrediting by the NAAB. In FY24, NCARB proudly welcomed Thomas Jefferson University into the IPAL initiative. IPAL is now offered at 28 schools, including 33 individual programs, across the United States, and over 600 students have enrolled during the 2023-2024 school year.

Twenty-eight NAAB-accredited programs now offer IPAL options. For a full list of these programs, visit NCARB's website.

INTERNATIONAL UPDATES

Mutual Recognition Agreement with the United Kingdom

In April 2023, NCARB and our U.K. counterpart, the Architects Registration Board (ARB), expanded international reciprocity by implementing a new mutual recognition agreement (MRA).

The agreement, which is based on an assessment of similarities in architecture licensing standards between the U.S. and the U.K., provides a path for eligible architects to expand their careers internationally.

In FY24, NCARB and the ARB worked to promote and encourage eligible architects to take advantage of this new opportunity to expand their practice globally through outreach events, webinars, and various other print and digital communications.

Ongoing International Efforts

This year, NCARB pursued international efforts to align with an increasingly global economy, ensuring architects can practice without limits, including abroad. To expand the opportunities available to NCARB-certified architects, we work to establish agreements with licensing authorities of several countries based on the concept of mutual reciprocity. In June 2024, NCARB held the International Regulatory Roundtable, attended by representatives from nine countries and 13 different regulatory entities, to strengthen and expand our international network—fostering collaboration and shared learning. Moving forward, we will continue our work with the global community to understand competencies to practice architecture, establish agreements with other countries, and understand how architecture regulation works around the world.

Expanding Access to International Reciprocity

In June 2024, NCARB's members passed resolutions to update two of NCARB's Mutual Recognition Agreements (MRAs), one involving adjustments to the agreement with Australia and New Zealand and the other streamlining elements of the Canada/Mexico/U.S. Tri-National Agreement. Updates to both agreements expand access to the MRAs, allowing more architects to pursue international licensure through these agreements.

In both cases, the agreements remove several barriers for qualified applicants, including:

- Reducing or removing the years of post-licensure experience required for eligibility
- Eliminating the citizenship requirement
- Accepting individuals who were licensed through non-traditional pathways

“These updates create exciting opportunities for architects seeking to practice internationally. As the commonalities of architectural practice become more and more global, the NCARB Certificate becomes increasingly valuable in facilitating international reciprocity.”

—FY24 NCARB President Jon Alan Baker, FAIA, NCARB, LEED AP

These changes are part of NCARB's ongoing efforts to reduce unnecessary barriers, including extended time requirements and limited paths to licensure and reciprocity, and instead increase opportunities toward licensure. The agreements' terms are based on a shared baseline of competency requirements at the point of initial licensure, while allowing for flexibility in competency assessment for each country's licensure process.

Both updated agreements will go into effect in FY25.

AWARENESS IN THE ARCHITECTURE COMMUNITY

NCARB staff regularly conduct outreach to students, licensure candidates, and architects to provide an overview of NCARB's programs, services, and recent initiatives each year. In FY24, our efforts not only supported the organization's mission but also continued to raise Awareness in the Architecture Community, allowing for continuous improvements to NCARB's core programs.

The organization continued to strengthen partnerships with external organizations, including those within the architecture community and similar organizations from other licensed professions. With proactive communications to the press and social media, NCARB continued offering transparency into our operations, responding to customer feedback, and positioning the organization as a thought leader in architectural regulation.

OUTREACH TO MEMBERS AND VOLUNTEERS

Licensing Advisors Summit

In August 2023, NCARB held its biennial training event for architect licensing advisors in Kansas City, Missouri. Licensing advisors are dedicated volunteers who guide individuals on the path to licensure and certification. Advisors include students, licensure candidates, professors, and architects from across the country who share information about the process of becoming an architect with their local community.

During the event, NCARB provided licensing advisors with the opportunity to learn more about recent program changes, share best practices, and get to know NCARB leadership. Through a mix of presentations, interactive panels, and breakout sessions, attendees explored topics related to motivating, empowering, and advocating for candidates, including creating a diverse pipeline for the profession, navigating state requirements, and more.

Committee Summit

Each year, NCARB’s Committee Summit provides volunteers with the opportunity to engage with members of other NCARB committees and task forces. Each NCARB volunteer group focuses on a different aspect of the organization’s work—from candidate-focused programs like the Architectural Experience Program® (AXP®) to internal items like NCARB’s policy and governance documents. The annual Committee Summit is designed to give volunteers the opportunity to see how their work aligns with the rest of NCARB’s efforts, providing a holistic understanding of each program or project.

Volunteers engaged in critical conversations at the 2023 Committee Summit.

Held in Washington, DC, this year’s meeting allowed committee members to discuss shared topics of interest, collaborate on joint charges, and engage with the wider NCARB community. Committee members also received important updates from NCARB leaders about progress on key FY24 priorities. Five volunteer groups participated in the FY24 meeting, including:

- Competency Task Force
- Education Committee
- Examination Committee
- Experience Committee
- Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force

Regional Summit

NCARB’s Regional Summit is the second-largest gathering of its members each year, designed by regional leadership to encourage engagement within and across NCARB’s six regions. Conducted on March 1-2, 2024, in Savannah, Georgia, this year’s meeting allowed members to explore key national initiatives, discuss regional issues, and elect leadership for the year ahead. This year’s summit was hosted by NCARB’s Region 3, which is comprised of licensing boards in the southeastern U.S.

During the keynote presentation, attendees also heard from architect and researcher George Guida, RIBA, LEED AP BD+C, about opportunities to incorporate artificial intelligence during various stages of the design process and how regulators can continue to ensure public protection as use of AI grows.

Annual Business Meeting

On June 12-15, 2024, delegates from the U.S. architectural licensing boards gathered to discuss issues facing the regulation of the profession at NCARB’s Annual Business Meeting in Chicago, Illinois. The meeting provided a forum for NCARB members to vote on resolutions, elect the incoming Board of Directors—including the inaugural election of two at-large directors—and shape the agenda for the Council’s next fiscal year

(which begins on July 1). During the meeting, attendees also had the opportunity to hear a keynote speech from generational diversity expert Kristin Scroggin, engage in workshops covering a variety of important topics, and receive updates on NCARB’s work over the past year.

While in Chicago, members voted on several resolutions—including rejecting updates to NCARB’s regional structure, passing updates to two existing mutual recognition agreements, and passing a change to the Certificate requirement for architects serving on the NCARB Board of Directors. Members also retired several historical resolutions in conflict with current Council policies and updated the Model Law and Regulations to expand early access to the exam.

Annual Business Meeting attendees engaged in a round-table discussion at a workshop on artificial intelligence and regulation.

FY24 President Jon Alan Baker, FAIA, NCARB, LEED AP, highlighted NCARB’s accomplishments and the work of NCARB’s dedicated volunteers over the past year. Baker also provided an update on efforts to create additional pathways to practice, celebrated the work of the Competency and Licensure Process Research & Development Task Forces, and encouraged attendees to continue evolving NCARB’s programs and services.

Incoming FY25 President Kenneth R. Van Tine, AIA, NCARB, LEED AP, shared his vision for the year ahead. During his term, Van Tine plans to continue existing efforts to expand pathways to licensure, including exploring potential pathways for community college students. In addition, the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force will continue their efforts as NCARB works toward adopting new methods of assessing candidates’ competency.

“This year’s initiatives hold particular importance in our collective long-term efforts to improve opportunities, remove barriers, and support a more inclusive process for licensure. Together, we are doing important things, we are doing exciting things, and we are doing necessary things.”

Member Board Outreach

NCARB staff conducts regular visits to individual licensing boards, with several visits conducted in FY24. CEO Michael Armstrong and NCARB’s Council Relations team were able to engage with several boards, including the California, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania boards. These meetings provided NCARB with a forum to learn about any upcoming changes to the licensing boards’ rules and requirements and assess ways NCARB can better support the individual needs of each board.

NCARB also provided a series of webinars for board members and board staff, providing in-depth information about ongoing initiatives—including the development of the NCARB Competency Standard for Architects, advocacy and external engagement, and more. This series of webinars allowed NCARB and licensing board members to discuss opportunities for greater alignment and provided the opportunity for open dialogue between NCARB and our members.

Customer Outreach

NCARB regularly conducts outreach presentations for students, licensure candidates, architects, and other professionals in the field. These engagements allow for the early promotion of architectural career paths, updates on core programs, and personalized assistance to community members.

NCARB's expert team conducted outreach with options for remote and face-to-face participation, which enables NCARB staff to reach a broad audience of customers. In FY24, NCARB made 107 presentations to 4,196 people at:

- 37 Universities
- 26 Community Colleges
- 10 AIA Components & Other Professional Organizations
- 6 Firms
- 22 Professional Conferences
- 4 K-12 Conferences
- 2 AIAS Conferences

annual Conference on Architecture. NCARB staff and leadership attended to help licensure candidates and architects from around the world meet their career goals and present on critical topics like international practice and diversity, equity, and inclusion in the profession. As in previous years, NCARB staffed a popular booth in the expo hall, and staff experts were on hand to answer questions about licensure, certification, continuing education, and other architecture-related topics. NCARB also hosted staff from the DC, Maryland, and Virginia licensing boards to answer local licensure candidate questions.

NCARB Live Webinars

Through our commitment to ensure the architectural design community have access to the latest information about NCARB's programs and initiatives, NCARB staff members regularly host live webinars to dive deeper into various topics. NCARB strives to ensure licensure candidates and architects are equipped with the information and resources needed to practice in the profession and progress on the path to licensure. Webinar topics address important information such as policy updates and program information, including a webinar with the United Kingdom's Architects Registration Board (ARB) about our mutual recognition agreement (MRA) and a webinar with NCARB experts about the paths to NCARB certification. The webinars hosted in FY24 allowed NCARB community members the opportunity to learn from NCARB experts and ask questions on hot-button topics in the architecture profession.

Collateral Engagement and External Partnerships

Throughout FY24, NCARB collaborated with other members of the architecture community to advance our mission to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the public. Through many forums, NCARB leaders engaged with leadership from the Architectural Alliance and other partners to develop opportunities to strengthen our connections and encourage greater equity in the field of architecture.

NCARB also engaged with various organizations in the interior design, landscape architecture, engineering, and surveying professions, collectively known as the Interorganizational Council on Regulation (ICOR). Together, NCARB and its fellow ICOR members provided joint support to their shared members and engaged on other issues facing the design professions.

AIA

In FY24, NCARB continued its partnership with the AIA, one of the professional societies for architects, to support the practices of architecture. AIA and NCARB leaders engaged at their regular Leadership Summits and Architecture Alliance meetings. In addition, NCARB CEO Mike Armstrong presented at the AIA "Big Sibs" (a group of large local AIA component officers and executives) meeting hosted by AIA Baltimore. He provided an overview of NCARB's recent initiatives and learned more about the substantive challenges and opportunities facing the chapters. NCARB also partnered with several local AIA chapters throughout FY24 to inform key stakeholders about the important role that licensing boards play in protecting the health, safety, and welfare of communities.

AIAS

NCARB kicked off the fiscal year by supporting the American Institute of Architecture Students (AIAS) Grassroots Conference, hosting an open house and licensing advisor training session at NCARB's office. NCARB continues to provide a grant to support the AIAS Freedom by Design program and offers participants mentorship opportunities with members of state licensing boards. In addition, Georgia Member Board Member Anne Smith, FAIA, NCARB, serves as the NCARB liaison on the AIAS Board of Directors. In FY24, NCARB, AIAS, and the International Code Council (ICC) also co-sponsored an inaugural student design contest, in which participating students were challenged to use their knowledge and education toward affordable housing solutions in Long Beach, California.

ACSA

In FY24, NCARB and ACSA continued to further their partnership to ensure support for professional practice educators. Through ProPEL, a library of digital curriculum materials that pro-practice professors can use to supplement their own syllabi, the two partners continue to create new resources to support the educational community.

NAAB

Throughout the year, NCARB and NAAB met regularly to discuss updates, respond to questions, and address evolving programs and policies. NAAB also continued to provide data on student enrollment for the 2024 edition of NCARB by the Numbers.

NOMA

NCARB continues to partner with NOMA to better understand attrition on the licensure path and identify ways to address disparities in the profession. In FY24, NCARB and NOMA followed up on findings from the joint Baseline on Belonging study by releasing a compiled report on the initial survey and an action plan to address the identified licensure impediments. NCARB also released two follow-up reports on licensure accessibility and AXP firm support, in addition to developing new resources to promote more equitable workplaces. In March of 2024, NCARB and NOMA announced the next phase of our joint study, Building on Belonging, which aims to follow up on initial findings from Baseline on Belonging through a series of surveys and action items. Going forward, NCARB and NOMA will continue to collaborate as the organizations address the action items in the report and work for greater diversity, equity, and inclusion in architecture.

Licensure Advisory Forum

In FY24, NCARB’s Licensure Advisory Forum members gathered for a one-day event to provide feedback on the entire licensure process and identify ways the organizations can work together to address common issues. This forum allows stakeholders across the profession who are outside of the Architecture Alliance—including the American Indian Council of Architects and Engineers (AICAE), Arquitectos, the Association of Licensed Architects (ALA), the Society of American Registered Architects (SARA), and the Society for Design Administrators (SDA)—to participate in comprehensive discussions regarding the development and maintenance of competency standards, encompassing education, experience, continuing education, and how they can inform the examination.

International Code Council (ICC)

In FY24, NCARB was a returning sponsor of the ICC’s Building Safety Month, which encourages ongoing collaboration between code officials and the professionals who work with them, including architects. Sponsoring Building Safety Month allows NCARB to highlight the importance of individual jurisdictions in the regulation of the profession while furthering our mission to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the built environment. NCARB repeated this sponsorship to help encourage all architects and candidates to familiarize themselves with their local building codes in order to better protect the public.

Interorganizational Council on Regulation (ICOR)

NCARB continued to partner with related organizations in the interior design, landscape, architecture, engineering, and surveying professions, collectively known as the Interorganizational Council on Regulation (ICOR). In FY24, NCARB launched a website for ICOR to better promote our joint advocacy efforts. We also continued our partnership on the overlapping practice effort, with volunteers beginning to analyze and come to consensus on appropriate areas of overlap versus distinct roles in the design professions. To help address this need for best practices and uniform standards in the area of overlapping practice, NCARB and ICOR plan to release guidance resources for licensing boards and regulatory bodies in the coming years.

Coalition of Community College Architecture Programs (CCCAP)

In FY24, NCARB and CCCAP engaged in critical conversations to understand how NCARB can help facilitate more accessible licensure paths for community college students. NCARB and CCCAP began developing a survey for licensing advisors to learn more about the students and architecture coursework at community colleges, as well as the transfer process between community colleges and accredited programs. NCARB and CCCAP will release the survey in FY25 and will use its findings to inform the next steps in our partnership.

PRESS AND SOCIAL MEDIA HIGHLIGHTS

Throughout FY24, NCARB worked to reach customers and the architecture community in various ways, including via email newsletters, the NCARB Blog, press, and social media. These platforms help ensure a broader reach to NCARB’s community to relay important information, such as NCARB’s updates, allowing information to spread beyond NCARB’s own network.

Media Coverage

NCARB was able to reach beyond its typical sphere of influence through external architectural media avenues. Throughout the year, leadership and NCARB volunteers participated in interviews, Q&A articles, and podcasts with various trade and business outlets, including Archinect, Architect’s Newspaper, Architectural Record, Governing, Madame Architect, Practice Disrupted, and more.

Social Sentiment

NCARB monitors sentiment in conversations on social media to understand how customers feel about its programs and services, as well as their overall perception of NCARB as an organization. Sentiment includes posts on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram, as well as comments left on blogs. NCARB determines sentiment through the review of mentions of the organization, programs, and services. Each mention is ranked as neutral, positive, or negative, depending on the tone of the content. In FY24, NCARB had an overall sentiment of 19 percent positive, 75 percent neutral, and 6 percent negative. A high level of neutral sentiment is typical for a regulatory organization such as NCARB, as many related posts reflect individuals and outlets sharing programmatic and news updates. Many positive mentions of NCARB focused on helpful resources from the NCARB Blog, the new reciprocity agreement between NCARB and our United Kingdom counterpart, ARB, and the reinstatement of exam credits from the rolling clock policy.

Architect Prova Zaman-Haque shared her experience earning a U.S. license through the U.S.-U.K. reciprocity agreement on the NCARB Blog.

STAKEHOLDER SYSTEMS, TOOLS, AND RESOURCES

To support our community of over 120,000 members, volunteers, and customers across the country, NCARB is constantly evolving our Stakeholder Systems, Tools, and Resources to ensure the organization stays on top of best practices. By taking advantage of emerging technologies and regularly updating our resources, we can better carry out our mission of protecting the public through the regulation of architecture.

In FY24, NCARB continued to refresh existing resources—including both tools for our customers and key documents used by our member licensing boards—to align and reflect program and policy updates.

CUSTOMER TOOLS AND RESOURCES

NCARB regularly updates customer resources and refreshes policies to meet the evolving needs of the architecture community. In FY24, the organization continued to focus on accessibility, awareness, and alignment in our tools and communications.

Updates to the AXP Guidelines

In May 2024, NCARB updated the Architectural Experience Program® (AXP®) Guidelines to clarify common points of candidate confusion and improve the document's formatting and usability. These updates did not include any programmatic or policy changes.

As part of the updates, NCARB added more notes throughout to address areas of confusion around current rules within the program; edits to the setting O chart to clarify employment status and supervisor requirements; clarifying edits to the AXP portfolio instructions; and a new, more accessible layout.

The updates ensure that NCARB's resources are clearer and user-friendly without altering any policies or requirements.

Updated ARE 5.0 Reference Guide

In FY24, NCARB refreshed the Architect Registration Examination® (ARE®) 5.0 Reference Guide—which is included in the ARE 5.0 Guidelines—to provide a focused list of recommended references for each ARE 5.0 division, streamlining candidates' test prep process. Based on common feedback from licensure candidates in favor of a more focused resource list, the updated reference guide also no longer lists version or edition numbers for most reference materials, as relevant information is still available in older editions.

The new reference guide replaces the reference matrix, providing candidates with a shorter, more focused resource for study purposes.

Impact of NCARB's Free Practice Exams

Throughout the year, NCARB continued to monitor the impact of its free practice exams, which were released in mid-2022. These practice exams are simulations that allow candidates to familiarize themselves with the exam format and gauge their readiness to test.

Recent data from NCARB's latest NCARB by the Numbers data report reveals that licensure candidates improved their pass rates by over 3% in 2023—the largest year-on-year improvement on record for ARE 5.0. Candidates also finished the exams five months faster in 2023 compared to 2022, likely a result of higher pass rates.

NCARB introduced free practice exams after data from NCARB and the National Organization of Minority Architects (NOMA)'s joint Baseline on Belonging study indicated that most candidates—especially candidates of color—spend over $500 on exam study resources. By offering free practice exams, NCARB can provide all candidates with access to high-quality, affordable study resources.

Approximately 80% of candidates use NCARB's free practice tests before taking the related ARE division, and those who do are 15 percentage points more likely to pass than candidates who don't use the practice tests. Candidates across all racial and ethnic groups saw at least a 10-percentage point average improvement in exam scores.

In FY25, NCARB will continue exploring opportunities to expand our test prep resources for candidates, improving access to effective, affordable study materials for all.

Updates for International Applicants

Throughout the year, NCARB staff worked to streamline internal processes around the Foreign Architect Path to Certification, a path to U.S. licensure for individuals who are licensed to practice architecture outside the U.S. As part of this effort, NCARB improved resources and processes, providing clarity and greater insight for international applicants seeking licensure through the path.

In September 2023, NCARB released a new comprehensive resource, the Foreign Architect Manual, to help applicants navigate NCARB's Foreign Architect Path to Certification. The manual provides detailed instructions for pursuing the Foreign Architect Path to NCARB Certification, clarifying each step for individuals who may be unfamiliar with how licensure works in the United States. The manual also provides a comparison of the Foreign Architect Path with other licensure paths for international applicants, helping applicants understand which path to licensure is best suited to their personal circumstances.

For many architects who earned a license or registration in a country outside of the United States, NCARB's Foreign Architect Path to Certification provides a streamlined approach to U.S. licensure that recognizes the value of their international license. Through this path, applicants who are licensed architects outside of the United States or Canada may be able to pursue an NCARB Certificate by verifying their license and completing the AXP and ARE. After earning an NCARB Certificate, applicants can use this credential to apply for a license in a U.S. jurisdiction that accepts an NCARB Certificate issued through the Foreign Architect Path.

NCARB Scholars in Professional Practice

NCARB held its fifth annual NCARB Scholars in Professional Practice program in August 2023, gathering 17 educators from architecture programs across the country at Ball State University's CAP: INDY center.

The NCARB Scholars in Professional Practice program provides professional practice professors an opportunity to enhance the delivery of their courses through expert training, collaboration, and discussion.

With a variety of cutting-edge content—ranging from storytelling and motivation to the future of architectural licensure—this unique professional development program provided educators with the tools and training to prepare students for competency and success in the profession of architecture.

2023 NCARB Scholars convened for the fifth annual event at Ball State University's CAP: INDY center.

Workforce Readiness Survey

In July 2023, NCARB assembled a work group of practitioners and educators to conduct a profession-wide job analysis study to determine the knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) required of an entry-level employee in an architecture firm.

Members of the Workforce Readiness Work Group worked to explore the top skills needed for entry-level architecture professionals.

Through research into job postings and other hiring documents, the work group put together an initial list of KSAs expected in an entry-level role. To validate this list, NCARB shared a survey with a broad range of individuals working in the architecture field—including both experienced and entry-level individuals, as well as licensed and unlicensed employees.

Through the survey, the respondents assessed the importance and relevance of each KSA for entry-level architecture professionals. Findings from the survey will help individuals interested in pursuing an architecture career better understand the knowledge and skills required, with the ultimate goal of ensuring greater workforce readiness. Findings from the report will be released in early FY25 and will guide efforts to ensure greater career readiness among new graduates and licensure candidates.

My NCARB Updates

In FY24, NCARB updated the My NCARB interface to improve the customer experience and better capture and track key data in the profession, including demographic information. As part of this effort, NCARB refreshed the process for updating Record holders' legal names in February 2024, enabling shorter turnaround times and smoother interactions for customers. In addition, NCARB refreshed account settings and demographic information, expanding the demographic selections available to include more options for items like disability status, gender identity, sexual orientation, and race/ethnicity. By making these options more accessible for customers and more representative of a variety of identities, we hope to create a more inclusive space for all. In addition, NCARB aims to provide more holistic reporting on demographic trends in the profession as part of our annual NCARB by the Numbers report.

MEMBERS AND VOLUNTEER RESOURCES

NCARB staff collaborate across departments to ensure that licensing board staff, members, and volunteers have access to the resources they need. During FY24, NCARB focused on refreshing several tools for these key stakeholders.

NCARB Bylaws Updates

As part of NCARB's multi-year governance reform, our members passed a resolution to amend the current Certificate requirement for Board of Directors positions, which previously required architect members in officer positions to hold the Certificate. Streamline. Under the updated Bylaws, only architects serving in officer positions on the Board must hold an NCARB Certificate. This enables non-certified architects to serve on NCARB's national Board of Directors, expanding access and removing financial impediments to service.

During the FY24 Annual Business Meeting, NCARB's members also elected the organization's first-ever at-large directors to serve on the FY25 Board of Directors. This is an important step in a larger governance structure reform commenced over several years, aimed at creating new pathways to national leadership.

The opportunity to run for FY25 at-large director positions resulted in a large and diverse slate, with 10 candidates running for the two open positions—including individuals with and without service on an NCARB licensing board. While Board eligibility had been historically limited to those who served on a licensing board, a governance change passed in FY23 added at-large seats with eligibility either by licensing board service or two years of committee service, among other changes.

Together, these changes are part of a multi-year effort on the part of NCARB's member and volunteer community to widen the pool of candidates eligible to serve on the Board of Directors, streamline the time needed to progress through NCARB leadership to the presidency, and balance representation on the Board.

Members engaged in discussion at the 2024 Annual Business Meeting.

Model Law and Regulations Update

In FY24, NCARB amended the Model Law and Regulations to update the recommended national standard for access to the examination.

Volunteers engaged in discussion on potential resolutions during NCARB's annual Committee Summit.

Members passed a resolution to streamline education requirements, removing previous requirements of completing an approved education program or being enrolled in IPAL for exam eligibility. The updated Model Law and Regulations requires candidates to have graduated from a state-regulated or federally-regulated high school or the equivalent to gain access to the exam. This change is intended to expand access to begin testing for candidates who may not hold a degree from a NAAB-accredited program, including those who hold a two— or four-year degree in architecture, foreign architects, and other candidates pursuing a non-traditional path to licensure.

The NCARB Model Law and Regulations offers recommended regulatory language for individual jurisdictions to adapt and adopt as needed. NCARB's updated Model Law and Regulations does not immediately impact access to exam eligibility, but NCARB hopes to see licensing boards adopt the new model language going forward.

Sunset of Old Resolutions

In addition, NCARB's Policy Advisory Committee continued a multi-year research project to identify historical policy or position-related resolutions that are no longer in line with the Council's current philosophy and practice. In FY24, the committee examined resolutions dating back to 1960 related to financial, process, education, experience, certification, or continuing education policies. The committee also reviewed resolutions passed prior to the 1960s to understand their impact on the Council's current programs and policies.

As a result, the committee recommended the retirement of various resolutions from the 1960s and 70s to ensure that NCARB's official policies align with current practice. The committee also recommended the sunset of all resolutions passed prior to 1960, removing any conflicts with current NCARB policies. These resolutions were officially retired after a membership vote during NCARB's Annual Business Meeting in June, wrapping up NCARB's multi-year effort to clean up historic policy resolutions.

Get on Board

In FY24, NCARB continued its "Get on Board" campaign as part of its initiative to encourage diverse appointments to state licensing boards in its customer community. This will lead to more diverse leadership at the national level. By raising awareness of opportunities to volunteer, NCARB hopes to promote increased engagement for individuals of all backgrounds. This campaign will continue to evolve and expand over the coming years.

DATA ANALYSIS AND THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

As a source of exclusive data and insight into architectural licensure, NCARB has solidified a position as a thought leader in the regulatory community, the architecture industry, and beyond. Using data analysis to support informed decision-making at the national, regional, and jurisdictional levels, NCARB continues to make strides for meaningful change throughout the architecture community.

In FY24, NCARB added fresh insights to the annual NCARB by the Numbers publication. Building on the expanded examination section launched the previous year, the 2024 edition digs deeper into the impact of NCARB's free, full-length practice exams on candidate pass rates and the impact of the rolling clock policy retirement. The Experience and Education sections of the report were also combined into one new section, Building Competency, to align with NCARB's ongoing efforts to re-envision the future of licensure. In addition to sharing the impact of race and ethnicity, gender, and age on key licensure data, the 2024 edition also begins to explore the impact an individual's firm size may have on their journey to becoming an architect.

NCARB and NOMA followed up on findings from the joint Baseline on Belonging study by releasing a compiled report on the initial survey and an action plan to address identified licensure impediments. NCARB also released two follow-up reports on licensure accessibility and AXP firm support, in addition to developing new resources to promote more equitable workplaces.

In the years to come, NCARB will continue using the data gathered in NCARB by the Numbers and phase two of the joint study with NOMA, called Building on Belonging—as well as insight from our members, customers, volunteers, and the public—to respond to the profession's most pressing challenges and uphold our mission to protect the public's health, safety, and welfare.

The 2024 edition of NCARB by the Numbers shares key data shaping the architecture community.

NCARB BY THE NUMBERS

In FY24, NCARB released the 13th edition of NCARB by the Numbers, which is based on data from the 2023 calendar year. Each year since its inception, NCARB has evolved the publication, offering new and exclusive insights as the organization expands its data capabilities.

Impact of Practice Exams on Candidate Pass Rates

In June 2022, NCARB launched free practice exams for all six divisions of the ARE. This decision was informed by research from the Baseline on Belonging study, which highlighted the significant amounts of money candidates were spending on study materials.

The 2024 edition of NCARB by the Numbers offers exclusive insight into the impact of NCARB’s practice exams on exam performance. Nearly 80% of candidates are now using NCARB’s free practice exams prior to testing, and the results are positive. The data showed that candidates who take one of NCARB’s free practice exams before attempting the related division are, on average, 15 percentage points more likely to succeed. This ranges anywhere from 11-18 percentage points, depending on the division, with the Practice and Project Management divisions showing the greatest improvements.

“As NCARB works with the 55 U.S. architectural licensing boards to enhance equity on the path to licensure, NCARB by the Numbers offers crucial insights that guide our decisions while evaluating our programs and services. The positive impact of the practice exams underscores the value of our data-driven approach.”

—NCARB CEO Michael Armstrong

BUILDING ON BELONGING

In early 2020, the NCARB and NOMA began a joint Baseline on Belonging study exploring the experiences of underrepresented groups in the early stages of their architecture careers. The study explores the underlying reasons why women and people of color left the path to licensure at higher rates than their white, male peers.

The study’s initial survey was released in February 2020 to over 70,000 individuals and received over 5,000 complete responses (including over 2,800 from people of color and nearly 2,500 from women). Since then, NCARB and NOMA have released four in-depth reports on the survey’s findings, highlighting disparities related to education, experience, examination, and firm culture.

Three key themes were present throughout all reports: individuals who identified as part of multiple underrepresented groups faced higher levels of disparity; disparities faced by minority candidates compounded throughout their career, leading to increasingly higher levels of attrition and difficulty; and the age of candidates has a significant impact on licensure progress.

In FY24, NCARB and NOMA announced the next phase of our joint study, Building on Belonging, which aims to follow up on initial findings from Baseline on Belonging through a series of surveys and action items. This next phase of research also focuses on identifying opportunities to make the architecture profession more equitable.

NCARB and NOMA took several steps to dig into the findings of the initial Baseline on Belonging study in FY24 and propose potential solutions, including:

- Released a compiled report and action plan, with a transparent view of steps already being taken by NCARB, NOMA, and related organizations
- Conducted surveys on licensure accessibility and AXP firm support and released reports in each topic area
- Developed two new resources for licensure candidates and employers to help promote more equitable workplaces

Action Plan

In FY24, NCARB and NOMA released a compiled report and action plan.

Developed with the help of a series of focus groups with NOMA, the action plan provides detailed recommendations for NCARB and NOMA, including items already in progress and areas for further research. The recommendations include raising awareness of the path to licensure, evaluating the difficulty of the path and the cost of the licensure path, creating more effective mentorship programs, fostering more inclusive firm culture, and more. Readers can also see an overview of actions already taken by NCARB to address the issues raised by the study.

In addition to the action plan, the compiled report also includes new insights, such as key findings by demographic group, a report on Native American and Pacific Islander respondents, and more.

“The partnership with NCARB has allowed us to quantify the disadvantages BIPOC architects face as they enter the profession, establishing these benchmarks to begin to address the specific challenges we face. Action with intention will yield real results, which is what matters now to create the change we want to see as an industry.”

—NOMA National Program Manager Tiffany Mayhew

Awareness and Accessibility on the Licensure Path Report

As background research for Baseline on Belonging action items related to licensure awareness and accessibility, NCARB and NOMA developed a short survey. The survey explored how candidates’ knowledge of the licensure process impacted their career choices and gathered feedback regarding where more flexibility in licensure requirements might improve accessibility.

Over 4,000 licensure candidates, recently licensed architects, and design professionals who stopped pursuing licensure responded to the survey. The findings highlighted two related issues that impact the majority of individuals on the path to licensure:

- For many candidates, licensure awareness happens too late
- Many candidates need flexibility on the licensure path due to personal or professional circumstances

As NCARB is in the middle of a multi-year effort to re-envision the process of becoming an architect, we will use findings from this survey to inform our work.

Architectural Experience Program® (AXP®) Support Report

In April 2024, NCARB and NOMA also conducted background research on the types of AXP support candidates received from their firms and supervisors and how this impacted their ability to meet the experience requirements.

Over 1,600 licensure candidates and architects responded to the survey. The findings highlighted two related issues that impacted many individuals on the path to licensure:

- Many candidates don't get the AXP support or resources needed from their firm
- Many candidates—especially candidates of color—indicated their AXP supervisor was not accessible to them

The goal of this follow-up research was to understand gaps in firms' support of licensure candidates and support NCARB's and NOMA's ongoing work to develop resources that help firms and employees navigate the licensure path.

Best Practice Guides for Architect Licensure Support

To help build a foundation for firm leadership and candidates, NCARB developed two new resources based on our Baseline on Belonging research and action plan with NOMA. These guides aim to promote equitable workplaces by ensuring that candidates know what licensure support they can advocate for, and so firms better understand what level of licensure support they should be offering—and how to share that information with their employees.

- The Candidate Guide is designed to help licensure candidates find employers that actively support their licensure goals. The guide provides valuable insights and tips for identifying firms that prioritize professional development, offer study resources and financial support for the ARE, and provide mentorship opportunities.
- The Firm Guide offers best practices and actionable tips for maintaining a supportive and equitable work environment for licensure candidates. It covers strategies for providing financial support for licensure, creating candidate support networks, and ensuring equitable access to firm resources.

Beyond FY24, NCARB and NOMA will continue to develop resources to address the disparities identified in our study. And, through our Building on Belonging follow-up effort, we'll be releasing more short surveys exploring specific topics highlighted in the initial research.

In May 2024, NCARB and NOMA released two best practice guides for licensure candidates and employers.

ADVOCACY SUPPORT, OUTREACH, AND INFLUENCE

Throughout FY24, NCARB remained aligned with its strategic objective of providing Advocacy Support, Outreach, and Influence. The organization tracked hundreds of bills and regulations and engaged in legislative and political challenges nationwide to maintain our core advocacy and external engagement goals.

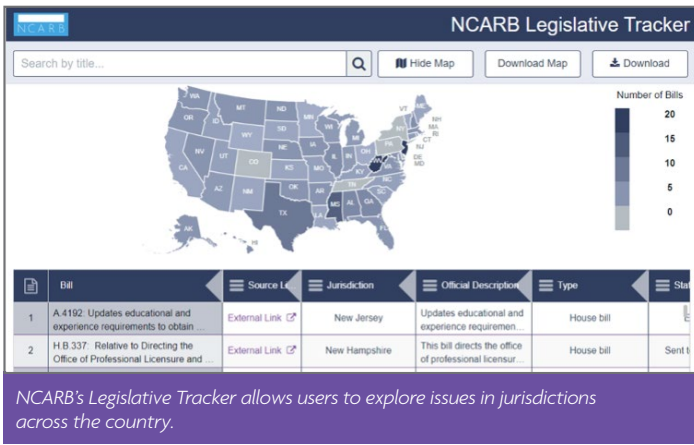

Using insights from best practices, NCARB honed our ability to provide robust data, public survey results, and convincing arguments to empower policymakers to make informed decisions about the oversight of the architectural profession. NCARB will maintain our position as a regulatory thought leader as political or legislative challenges continue to inevitably arise in the years to come.

LEGISLATIVE TRACKING & MONITORING

During FY24, NCARB monitored bills and regulations that had the potential to impact the regulation of architecture or an architect licensing board's ability to carry out its mission. In FY24, NCARB:

- Reviewed and actively tracked 249 bills related to architecture and professional licensing across 41 jurisdictions.
- The top-trending legislative topics monitored include:
 - Licensing board reform
 - Reciprocity
 - Regulation of interior design
 - Regulatory reform

2024 Legislative Monitoring Statistics
Legislative Category	Monitored Bills
Administrative/Operational	75
Military Community-Related	34
Fees/Revenue	24
Criminal History	20
Interior Design	18
Board Review/Oversight	15
General Reciprocity	9
Universal Licensure	12
Sunrise/Sunset	7

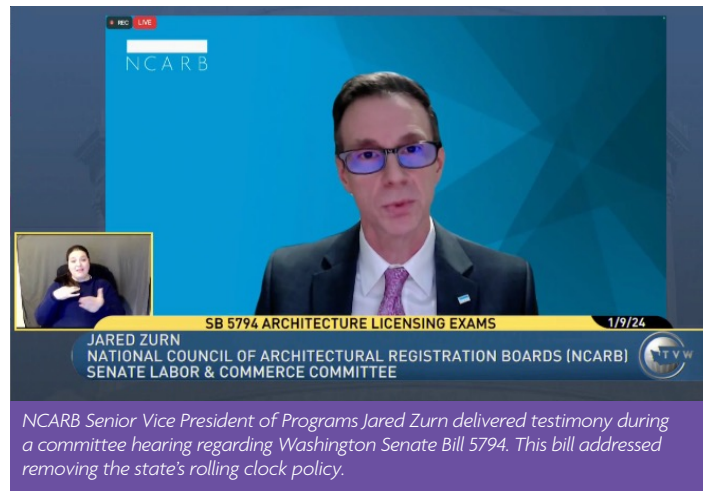

NCARB's Legislative Tracker allows users to explore issues in jurisdictions across the country.

NCARB provides an easy-to-use legislative tracking tool for licensing board members on the Member Board Community that allows users to explore issues not only in their specific jurisdictions but also across the country.

POLITICAL AND LEGISLATIVE ENGAGEMENT

NCARB also supports state licensing boards seeking to streamline their licensure requirements. This encompasses a thorough review of current licensing requirements, more opportunities and pathways to licensure, and the facilitation of licensure reciprocity across state and international borders. NCARB's Member Board faced various legislative and political challenges in FY24. Below are examples from this past year:

- Rolling clock retirement—Staff collaborated with the licensing board and professional societies in Illinois and Washington to eliminate their jurisdictional rolling clock policies.
- Arizona—NCARB worked alongside the Arizona State Board of Technical Registration and AIA Arizona to help inform policymakers' decision to continue the Board.

NCARB Senior Vice President of Programs Jared Zurn delivered testimony during a committee hearing regarding Washington Senate Bill 5794. This bill addressed removing the state's rolling clock policy.

COALITION BUILDING

NCARB staff partnered with other organizations to share information about legislative proposals and coordinate responses with jurisdictional counterparts—cultivating partnerships that support NCARB's advocacy success. Our external partners include:

The Alliance for Responsible Professional Licensing (ARPL)

ARPL promotes a responsible, balanced approach to professional licensing through research development, media engagement, and advocacy efforts. ARPL also provides best practices and practical solutions to help states solve occupation-specific licensing challenges and offers useful tools to assist licensing boards with their advocacy activities. ARPL enables us to amplify our reach to audiences and decision-makers nationwide through various channels, including social media and earned-media.

The Interorganizational Council on Regulation (ICOR)

ICOR works to share best practices and advocate on behalf of the licensing boards that regulate the professions of architecture, engineering, interior design, landscape architecture, and surveying. We partner with ICOR on a variety of issues, and regularly meet to discuss the regulation of the design industry and licensure trends. We also collaborate on political and legislative challenges and work to strengthen partnerships between the professions. See more about our work with ICOR in Awareness in the Architecture Community.

The Federation of Association of Regulatory Boards (FARB)

FARB promotes public protection and provides a forum for information exchange for associations of regulatory and licensing boards. In FY24, NCARB CEO Mike Armstrong served as president of FARB and spoke at the organization's Forum on Professional Regulation, held annually and designed for those who engage with state professional licensing boards to discuss emerging trends, acquire insight into best practices, and stay ahead of new legislation.

NCARB CEO Michael Armstrong speaking at the Forum on Professional Regulation hosted by FARB.

The International Code Council (ICC)

ICC is the global source of model codes, standards, and building safety solutions. We partner with ICC to remain up to date with current model codes and standards to ensure architects and candidates are aware of any updated information impacting the protection of the health, safety, and welfare of the public.

LOOKING AHEAD

NCARB and staff will continue their efforts advocating for responsible and reasonable regulations in the years ahead. As political and legislative challenges and opportunities arise, the Council will continue to leverage its internal expertise, resources, and external partnerships to engage in the conversation effectively.

FUTURE-FOCUSED RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

NCARB closely monitors and evaluates its licensure programs to ensure they reflect current practice and protect the public's health, safety, and welfare. NCARB and our Member Boards work together to constantly assess how well the path to licensure aligns with the work being performed by architecture firms, especially as innovative practices and technological advances lead to changes in daily practice. Throughout the year, the ongoing work of NCARB's volunteers enabled our organization to anticipate—rather than respond to—the needs of the future.

ANALYSIS OF PRACTICE

Every 7-10 years, NCARB conducts a profession-wide study designed to explore the current and near-future practices of architecture. The results of this Analysis of Practice inform changes to the national programs required for architectural licensure, including the AXP and ARE. To better understand the work, scope, and skills required of architects—as well as their overlap with the work performed by other related professionals—the study featured a wide range of data collection methods. These included focus groups, online polls, and a comprehensive, profession-wide survey released in April 2022.

The Analysis of Practice was designed to better understand the diversity of practice that exists within the profession. In collaboration with research partner Alpine Testing Solutions, NCARB gathered input from the entire profession, ensuring all individuals of all demographics were well-represented—including racial, ethnic, and gender representation, as well as representation of practitioners from various firm sizes, regions, experience levels, and beyond.

Thousands of individuals across the architecture, engineering, and construction (AEC) industry participated in the largest and most comprehensive Analysis of Practice study in NCARB's history—exploring everything from technological advances to cross-professional collaboration and specialization shifts. Throughout 2023, NCARB released key findings from each section of the survey, ultimately releasing a full report in December 2023.

The report details findings related to the value of licensure, the roles and responsibilities of architects; ethics; professional development; diversity, equity, and inclusion; and much more. Key findings from the report include:

- 80% of architects rated the personal and professional value of their license an 8/10 or higher
- Respondents under 35 were more likely to believe architects have an ethical responsibility to promote sustainability
- Most respondents agree that a diverse profession is better able to protect the public

Data insights from the Analysis of Practice will primarily inform the work of various committees and work groups throughout the years and in years to come, including NCARB's Competency Task Force. Results from the study will help us to better understand the ecosystem of architectural practice and may lead to changes to the national licensing programs and standards of the future.

EXPLORING PATHWAYS TO PRACTICE

Established in 2022, two NCARB task forces continued their efforts to address the overlapping topics of what knowledge, skills, and abilities should be required for initial licensure (addressed by the Competency Task Force), as well as how that competency should be assessed (addressed by the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force). Their efforts will guide the development of future licensure processes used by NCARB and our member licensing boards.

In FY24, the Competency Task Force developed and refined a draft NCARB Competency Standard for Architects, utilizing feedback from NCARB's volunteers and members to create a holistic standard for competency at the point of initial licensure.

The Competency Standard will be finalized and released in early FY25.

Throughout the year, the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force explored various structural approaches to architect licensing that might best address aspects of cost, efficiency, flexibility, and equity, including research to better inform the work and development of Pathways to Practice. In FY25, they will continue using the framework established by the Competency Task Force to design potential versions of the next path (or paths) to licensure.

Members of the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force convened to continue efforts to explore potential future paths to licensure.

FUTURES COLLABORATIVE

NCARB established the Futures Collaborative in 2017 as part of a multi-year effort to ensure licensure programs and regulations keep pace with an evolving profession. Composed of practicing architects, experts in emerging technologies, and architectural licensing board members, the collaborative spent the past several years meeting with innovators in the design industry, asking challenging questions, and exploring how current trends could shape the profession.

In FY24, the collaborative continued to engage with multiple subject matter experts to explore a range of future-focused topics, including the interconnectivity between technology and sustainability, the progression of computational design, the automation of code compliance, artificial intelligence, and issues related to climate adaptation.

In December 2023, the Futures Collaborative brought their conversations and insights to NCARB's larger volunteer committee, hosting an inaugural Futures Symposium in Washington, DC. The symposium brought together subject matter experts, NCARB volunteers, and NCARB leadership to explore cutting-edge trends in the profession. Through a range of topics focused on the interplay between technology, extreme conditions, and the profession's charge to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the public, attendees were able to explore and share insights on big-picture ideas to approach the advancement of the profession.

To follow up on this symposium, the collaborative hosted a virtual roundtable on the topic of space architecture in May 2024. NCARB volunteers and industry innovators met to discuss their work and efforts to emphasize architects' value in designing space habitats. Five leaders in the space architecture field discussed the progression of space architecture and the important role architects can play in designing extra-terrestrial habitats as mission type and duration evolve.

Members, volunteers, and expert panelists also explored how NCARB, as a facilitator of licensure, could help recognize this specialist field and might assist in establishing guidelines and standards that prioritize the welfare of future inhabitants of space environments. The NCARB Futures Collaborative will continue exploring how future trends impact regulation and how our programs can adapt to future challenges.

NCARB volunteers debated the impact of emerging technologies and industry trends during the inaugural Futures Symposium in Washington, DC.

LEADERSHIP REPORTS

NCARB relies on the work of hundreds of volunteers to make up its membership, guide programs and services, and form its Board of Directors. Read reports from each of NCARB's officers and committees.

NCARB is led by its Board of Directors, which in FY24 consisted of 14 volunteers elected by the 55 Member Boards: 12 architects, one public director, and one executive from a licensing board.

The FY24 Board of Directors' accomplishments include the following highlights:

- Released a statement committing to the development of a framework for multiple “Pathways to Practice,” which recognizes the need for a variety of educational and career paths to position individuals to qualify for an architectural license
- Continued efforts to expand access to international reciprocity by negotiating an updated mutual recognition agreement with NCARB’s counterparts in Australia and New Zealand
- Provided feedback and insight into the development of NCARB’s new Competency Standard for Architects, which was finalized and released in FY25
- Engaged in blue-sky conversations regarding the development of future licensure paths to create greater accessibility on the path to licensure
- Worked with the Regional Realignment Work Group to gather feedback from NCARB’s membership regarding regional governance and develop a proposal for restructuring NCARB’s regions
- Created a Workforce Readiness Work Group to explore the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to perform an entry-level architecture role
- Following a Member Board comment period, approved updates to the NCARB Education Standard to create greater flexibility and accessibility
- Approved new ARE security policies designed to better protect the integrity of exam content

- Negotiated with alliance partners and the National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB) in search of a sustainable model for funding the accreditation process.
- Engaged with the Coalition of Community College Architecture Programs (CCCAP) to explore greater recognition for community college education in the licensure pathway
- Supported efforts to advocate for reasonable regulation across the United States
- Led critical discussion and engagement with several collateral organizations and other external partners
- Maintained a rolling budget approach, allowing the organization to adapt strategically to the current economic trends and pursue new opportunities throughout the year

NCARB President's Report

*Jon Alan Baker, FAIA, NCARB, LEED AP
2023–2024 NCARB President*

This report is adapted from President Baker's 2024 Annual Business Meeting speech.

It has been a privilege for me to serve as NCARB's president this year. Thank you for providing me the platform to apply my story, and the stories of so many others, to the important and ongoing work of continuously improving the value of NCARB.

Last year, I posed the challenge that we needed to ask some hard questions and tackle some hard topics. Thanks the dedicated efforts of our community, we've done just that.

REFLECTING OVER THE YEAR

Creating Pathways to Practice

Over the past year, we've confronted tradition regarding the inclusion of aspiring architects on a nontraditional path to licensure through our Pathways to Practice initiative. While the NAAB accreditation path represents the most frequently used pathway, we have shown our commitment to recognizing other paths as part of a "multiple paths to licensure" system. As someone who took a nontraditional route myself, it was an honor overseeing this work and witnessing the dedication of our Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force and Competency Task Force volunteers, who jumpstarted this journey toward more accessible, yet still rigorous, paths to architectural licensure.

Celebrating Community College Education

On a similar note, we also challenged conventional wisdom to include and celebrate community college education as an important entry portal and valuable resource in the development of licensure candidates. After several years of dialogue with the Coalition of Community College Architecture Programs (CCCAP), NCARB launched a new initiative to more formally recognize the value of two-year associate degrees or certifications provided through community colleges. Through campus outreach to students and faculty, along with analysis by staff and volunteer committees, we are laying the groundwork to more formally integrate community college education into the licensure toolkit in the coming years.

Supporting Accredited Education

We've insisted upon and initiated a new conversation regarding the best ways to support accredited education. In February 2024, we released a statement affirming the value of accredited education, while also pushing for educational reform that removes unnecessary barriers to licensure and mobility. We also called for a feasibility study that would explore opportunities to offer a four-year Bachelor of Architecture degree program, rather than the traditional five-year program.

Assessing Workforce Readiness

We inserted workforce readiness as a key factor in defining competency to practice. This past year, I stood up a special work group on Workforce Readiness, designed to explore how the expectations of employers are being met through existing requirements for licensure. With the product of the work group, we hope to better prepare students to enter the profession with the highly valued knowledge and skills needed to be a successful entry-level employee.

Volunteer Efforts

We were able to do this, to pose these questions, to challenge these norms, thanks to the efforts of our members and volunteers, as well as the work of my predecessors—including Past President Bayliss Ward, who launched the ground-breaking task forces on Competency and Licensure Process Research & Development.

FY24 President Jon Baker spoke at NCARB's Annual Business Meeting.

Our ongoing committee work has assured that the voice of the membership and other practitioner perspectives is present in everything we do. That's a hallmark of what makes our programs defensible and credible. Thanks to the work of so many dedicated volunteers, NCARB is positioned to respond to the challenges of transformational change as our approach to regulation and practice evolves.

Together, we are doing important things, we are doing exciting things, we are doing necessary things. Let's keep doing that.

Vice President's Report

Kenneth R. Van Tine, AIA, NCARB, LEED AP

2023-2024 NCARB Vice President

This report is adapted from Vice President Van Tine's Annual Business Meeting speech.

As the incoming FY25 president, I would like to provide some insight into my career and my areas of focus for the year ahead.

Over the last 35 years, I've had the privilege of helping over 100 aspiring architects enter the workforce, and many of them have achieved licensure. Being able to mentor the next generation is one of the professional experiences I'm most proud of—and it's what led me to volunteer with NCARB. My passion to help shape the future of the profession and my desire to give back motivated me to pursue leadership within this organization.

As architects and industry professionals, we have a shared responsibility to ensure that the next generation of architects is competent to protect the public's health, safety, and welfare. NCARB is committed to ensuring the pathways to licensure reflect current practice and focus on the right set of competencies. Practice is changing, and we, as regulators, must keep pace with that change.

I'm excited to be able to lead the council at this pivotal time as we navigate the challenges ahead and take advantage of opportunities to move forward.

LOOKING AHEAD

The Value of Licensure

Across all professions, the value of regulation is being questioned. In response, we must demonstrate that our programs and policies are validated, up-to-date, and fair. We have the opportunity to be proactive in how we evolve our programs, and for these reasons, we are actively evaluating the tools, systems, and pathways to licensure.

The work of the Competency Task Force and the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force will inform our work to develop multiple pathways to licensure that maintain the rigor needed to protect the public.

The first milestone in this effort will be the adoption of the NCARB Competency Standard for Architects, which will provide the platform on which the evolution of our future programs will be based. Once adopted, we will assess how to update our current programs to align with the Competency Standard.

The Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force will continue their efforts in FY25, guided by the Competency Standard. Their recommendations will ensure the next iteration of our licensure process delivers innovative, flexible options that remove unnecessary barriers for those seeking licensure and will shape the architecture community for years to come!

Our FY25 volunteers will share their insights and feedback on this effort throughout the year, with focused charges to help validate essential improvements to our programs and services.

Member Collaboration & Engagement

In addition, the perspectives of our members will provide critical insight as we work to shape regulation and impact the future of the profession. We will ensure our members and other important voices are integrated into our discussions and research.

In late October, we will convene for our biannual Member Board Chairs & Executives Leadership Summit—an important forum for feedback and discussions on the recommendations shared by the task forces charged with modernizing our programs. There will also be other opportunities to explore and discuss the recommendations during our FY25 Committee Summit, Regional Summit, and Annual Business Meeting. Our expanded Regional Leadership Committee will serve as a focus group and sounding board for emerging issues.

In addition, I am establishing a virtual Leadership Roundtable where we gather a group of previous NCARB leaders to share their insights and historical knowledge as we chart our new course. Through these events and discussions, we ensure NCARB's members have more opportunities than ever to engage, shape, and help lead us through these pivotal changes over the next several years.

External Partners

We look forward to a renewed relationship with the National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB) in this coming year. Accredited education is the one path to licensure recognized by all Member Boards, with 85% of current candidates completing NAAB-accredited programs. We will work with NAAB to keep them informed about how their accreditation model aligns with our new Competency Standard. We hope to continue to provide opportunities for volunteers to serve on accreditation visiting teams and to recommend individuals to serve on the NAAB board.

We also hope to continue our partnership with the National Organization of Minority Architects (NOMA), sharing our commitment to look for meaningful changes that help improve access to licensure for all.

Vice President Ken Van Tine and members of the Board of Directors discussed a potential timeline for future licensure changes during a quarterly Board meeting.

Our joint study, Building on Belonging, which will continue throughout the year, follows our successful initial study called Baseline on Belonging. NCARB will also continue to support NOMA's 2030 challenge, aiming to double the number of Black or African American architects over the next decade. We will also conduct a tour of the seven Historically Black College and University architecture schools to encourage the pursuit of licensure and hear their struggles and accomplishments in that effort.

Pathways to Practice

Throughout the year, we will continue to promote the concept of enabling multiple paths to licensure through our Pathways to Practice initiative, which includes expanding options for individuals without a degree from a NAAB-accredited program. A key component of recognizing multiple paths is our ongoing work with community colleges, where we hope to strengthen our understanding and engagement with the faculty and students of these institutions across the country. Through this, we want to recognize the value community colleges offer students who are interested in becoming licensed.

I know first-hand some of the challenges and barriers people face in pursuing licensure. Many candidates and individuals interested in entering the architecture profession don't yet see a viable route to becoming an architect. Through Pathways to Practice, we hope to ensure that there is a path to licensure available for all candidates.

FY24 Vice President Ken Van Tine engaged with NCARB staff and attendees at the 2024 AIA Conference in Washington, DC.

Moving Forward

As president, I plan to lead NCARB with intention, ensuring that every voice is valued in the many pivotal discussions ahead. I am committed to being a good leader, which starts with being a good listener. As I engage with the architecture community throughout the year, I hope to get to the heart of what people are saying and move our key initiatives forward.

As an architect, we design for change—asking questions along the way to help us inform our work and understand the best plan to improve a project or community that benefits all impacted. As regulators, NCARB needs to take the time to consult, explain, and listen to all voices of those involved before making changes. I look forward to another exciting year in NCARB's journey.

Second Vice President's Report

*Edward T. Marley, NCARB, FAIA, LEED AP
2023-2024 NCARB Second Vice President*

Tell us about your responsibilities as NCARB's second vice president. What were some personal highlights from the year?

As second vice president, I was Board liaison to the Member Board Executives Committee. Working with that committee is probably one of the highlights of my NCARB service over the last 11 years. The committee members are engaged and passionate about what they do. Other highlights include traveling to the Union of International Architects (UIA) Symposium in Copenhagen, Denmark, where I had the opportunity to meet with our counterparts from Taiwan, Japan, Mexico, and the European Union. Lastly, establishing the NCARB Leadership Institute, an immersive training event for current and future NCARB leaders, was a significant milestone in my service to NCARB.

You've been involved with NCARB since 2012. How has the organization evolved over the years? What do you hope to see in the future for NCARB?

Every year that I am involved in this organization, I am more impressed with how forward-thinking and agile we are. We are not content with the status quo and are always looking for ways to facilitate the path to licensure and increase the value to our Certificate holders. We have also become a better resource for our Member Boards. We're always ready to jump into action when a Member Board has a need.

What keeps you committed and motivated to continue to volunteer?

My desire to be a thought leader keeps me motivated. As a person who embraces change and innovation, I'm excited about exploring ways to help our up-and-coming licensure candidates succeed on their path to licensure.

How has being NCARB certified helped you in your career, and why do you think it's important to explore and develop multiple pathways to licensure?

My NCARB Certificate has allowed me to grow my practice beyond my home state. Being licensed in nine states has given me flexibility in where I do projects. Being from a state that offers multiple pathways to licensure for various education backgrounds (Arizona), I have always seen the value of that approach. I think NCARB's focus on developing that initiative is critical to the growth and success of our profession. It will break down current barriers and lead to a more diverse and inclusive profession.

What initiatives will you focus on as NCARB's 2024-2025 vice president?

I am currently focused on ensuring continuity of work on the Pathways to Practice initiative. I also want to develop a stronger relationship with the International Code Council (ICC), particularly around continuing education. ICC has a strong code-related CE program that I would like to explore collaborating on as a further service to our Certificate holders.

Treasurer's Report

John Patrick Rademacher,
NCARB, AIA, NOMA

2023-2024 NCARB Treasurer

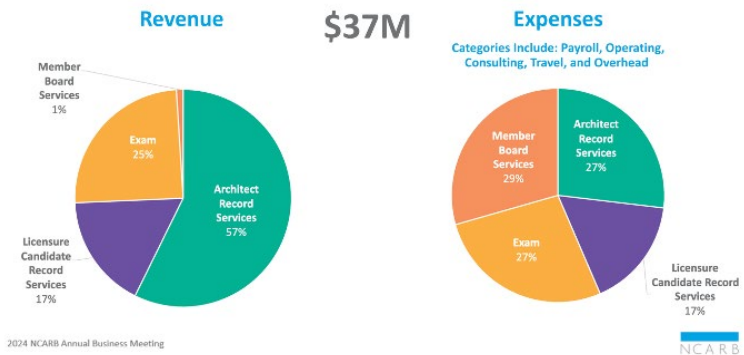

Note: This report is adapted from Treasurer Rademacher's Annual Business Meeting speech.

Immediately following the close of the 2023 Annual Business Meeting, the newly seated NCARB Board of Directors took action to approve the fiscal year 2023-2024 budget.

BUDGET

We approved a $37 million operating budget, with 99% of the revenue coming from Records services and exam deliveries. The other 1% comes from Member Board dues, conference registration fees, and investment income.

Our major expenses include employment expenses, office, and rent operations, consulting services, travel and meeting costs, and business consulting.

A breakdown of revenue and expenses from the FY24 budget.

CASH OPERATING RESULTS

In FY24, we managed to achieve our income goal—ending the year $700K ahead of the budget.

We have seen steady, sustained growth in the number of NCARB Certificate holders, exceeding 52,000 Certificate holders. Our Record holders have sought reciprocal licensure at a record pace in the past 12 months. The number of licensure candidates opening new NCARB Records and the number of exam deliveries also increased from FY23 to FY24, both exceeding budget expectations. The one area of underperformance was in registered architect application activity, a by-product of the highly successful “Welcome Back” campaign conducted at the end of FY23. However, overall, registered architect applications continue to have a very small level of activity.

Expenses were approximately $1 million higher than anticipated in the budget. Due to the increase in exam deliveries, our examination expenses also increased. If more candidates sit for the exam, we pay more to our testing vendor. Lack of expected staff vacancies throughout the year have also contributed to higher-than-expected operating costs. While this caused a budget overrun, employee retention also has long-term cost-savings effects and indicates that our employees are happy and engaged in their work.

Even though we had a small cash deficit for the year, thanks to the unspent carryover from the previous fiscal year, our operating fund finished the year well within its target range.

Benefits to Licensure Candidates

The FY24 budget funded several initiatives for licensure candidates, including:

- We continued to provide direct support for candidates choosing to use online proctoring to take the exam, covering the cost for candidates to do an online proctoring systems check which provides them the time and opportunity to identify and resolve technical glitches before their testing appointment.
- We continued to provide free, full-length practice exams that give candidates a full simulation of the exam format. There is one practice exam for each of the six ARE divisions. These exams are available at no cost to all candidates.

STATUS OF FUNDS

Over the past decade, we have had significant growth in the Council's Strategic Reserves—a good portion of which was due to market gains in the investments, as well as a change to reduce the target balance in the operating fund to make more funds available to expand innovation and strategic efforts. This also provided an opportunity to expand our investments and create the Strategic Growth Fund. This fund is geared to increase investment earnings to help fund strategic initiatives in the future.

The Council currently has approximately $21 million distributed between the Strategic Reserves and Strategic Growth Fund.

We maintain sufficient balances in these accounts to allow for market volatility. Our policies and our work with our investment advisors have built a broadly diversified portfolio, which will protect opportunities to continue investing in our programs, services, and resources for Council stakeholders.

STRATEGIC RESERVES

Each year, the Board of Directors conducts an Opportunity and Risk Assessment. This empowers us to invest in opportunities and mitigate against risks—with Strategic Reserves funds—without impacting core services. As a part of this annual assessment, we identify the potential costs of the opportunities and risks and consider the likelihood and level of impact associated with each scenario. This assessment helps determine the minimum target balance for the Strategic Reserve Fund, currently set at $21.2 million.

Innovation

In FY24, the Board invested approximately $2.1 million of the Council's Strategic Reserve funds to support the following product enhancements:

- Continuing the re-design of NCARB's customer management system, also known as My NCARB. This is the personalized interface that our Record holders experience when they log into our portal. For many of our customers, it's their main point of connection with us and where they go to see and update their career information.

- Improving exam experience. We are constantly working to improve the exam experience for our candidates. This year, we worked behind the scenes to enhance the item bank and update workflows.
- New online, on-demand continuing education (CE) content for our Continuum Education program. This is a benefit for Certificate holders that provides free CE courses in a variety of health, safety, and welfare (HSW) content areas.

The Board authorized an additional $1.4 million in Strategic Reserves for the following efforts and initiatives.

- Pathways to Practice: We are exploring a new multi-year "Pathways to Practice" initiative, which removes unnecessary impediments and allows greater equity and accessibility on the path to licensure. The Competency and Licensure Process Research & Development task forces are laying the groundwork for this initiative.
- Building Impact Study: NCARB, AIA, and ACSA's jointly commissioned the Building Impact study with Rand Consulting is assessing the connection between education and practice. Surveying and focus group work is underway across student, faculty, and early career practitioners. A report is anticipated sometime in FY25.
- Volunteer Lifecycle Research: We conducted a comprehensive analysis of NCARB volunteer engagement in order to assess the volunteer experience and maximize the value of their efforts.
- Community College Outreach: We continue to expand our outreach to community colleges to introduce our programs and promote accessibility.
- Pursuit of Additional Mutual Recognition Agreements (MRAs): We are pursuing MRAs with foreign licensing authorities to allow certificate holders to practice abroad, as well as across U.S. jurisdictional boundaries.
- Professional Practice Digital Library: In collaboration with the ACSA, NCARB is supporting the ProPEL Digital Library of professional practice curricula, covering foundational and emerging topics to expand teaching resources and better equip students for the future of architectural practice.
- Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion: NCARB is supporting the diversity, equity and inclusion work by developing measurable standards to measure progress and benchmark accomplishments.
- NCARB Leadership Institute: We are developing the new NCARB Leadership Development Institute to provide structured leadership training for those aspiring to serve as NCARB leaders.

The investment of $2.1 million in new program enhancements, and the $1.4 million spent on these efforts, total an expenditure of $3.5 million from strategic reserves toward opportunities for the Council.

Moving Forward

Despite recent market volatility, our finances and reserves remain healthy. The Council is committed to not stockpiling reserves, but to strategically investing in opportunities and mitigating risk. We are committed to leveraging our financial assets for the benefit of the Council. I'm sure in the years to come, the effort to balance the financial health of the Council with the opportunity to advance our services to customers and Member Boards will continue.

Secretary's Report

*Sylvia Kwan,
FAIA, NCARB, NOMA, LEED AP*

2023-2024 NCARB Secretary

Before being elected as secretary, you served as director of Region 6. How did your experience as regional director prepare you for your role as secretary?

I learned to represent my region both as a leader and on a national scale. I learned that it was necessary to participate as part of the national conversation rather than just representing Region 6. Although I was limited on how much I could talk about the region, it still came up in conversations quite a bit, as there was a lot to learn from each other on the national board. I watched how FY23 Secretary John Rademacher performed his duties and made note of all of the responsibilities that he had. That helped prepare me when it was my turn to be secretary.

In addition to serving on the NCARB Board of Directors, you've also led the California Architects Board and served on several NCARB committees—what motivates you to continue the work you do with NCARB?

I was really proud of the work I did on the California Architects Board. It felt fulfilling to participate in the work of helping architects attain their licenses and maintain the quality and value of the license. Once I was introduced to NCARB, I found the experience exhilarating to engage with architects from all over the country who cared about licensure. The causes of the committees I was on continue to be important, such as examination, experience, and especially diversity, equity, and inclusion.

You were also a member of NCARB's Diversity Collaborative, which evolved from grassroots efforts to now a permanent Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee. What role does the committee play in NCARB's process, and why is their work important?

It is so interesting that the work of the Diversity Collaborative resulted in all of these governance changes in such a relatively rapid order. Before our work, pretty much everything remained the same as it had for 100 years. It was very discouraging for those of us on the committee to see things go on year after year in the same manner without any significant change. So, when the leadership of the Board decided to listen and make some of the changes that we recommended, it was earth-shattering. And now, we are moving in a direction that is finally catching up with the reality of our world.

NCARB’s members voted on several resolutions this year, including passing updates to two existing mutual recognition agreements and passing a change to the Certificate requirement for architects serving on the NCARB Board of Directors. Can you tell us a little about them?

NCARB’s members passed all but one of the seven resolutions that were put forward to vote this year. Those resolutions included:

- Two omnibus resolutions to sunset outdated policy resolutions that do not align with how NCARB currently operates.
- A revised Mutual Recognition Agreement (MRA) between NCARB, AACA, and NZRAB that eliminates the post-licensure experience requirements as a qualification and allows acceptance of pathways outside the standard path to NCARB Certification.
- An amendment to our NCARB Model Law and Regulations, expanding early access to the exam by granting testing eligibility to high school graduates.
- An amendment to the NCARB Bylaws, removing the Certificate requirement for architects serving in non-officer positions on the NCARB Board of Directors.
- An amendment to the Canada/Mexico/U.S. Tri-National MRA that reduces the post-licensure experience requirement, allows acceptance of pathways outside the standard path to NCARB Certification, and reduces other unnecessary barriers to eligibility for qualified architects.
- A rejection of updates to NCARB’s regional structure, which proposed organizing NCARB’s membership into five regions instead of six.

How can members and the public stay informed about NCARB’s activities

Members can stay up-to-date with Board activities by visiting the Member Board Community, as well as participating in the pre- and post-BOD meeting calls with their regional leadership. Board minutes and BOD Briefs are uploaded to the community and sent to members after each meeting. The public can find the latest news on NCARB’s programs on ncarb.org and our social media channels (@ncarb).

Past President's Report

Bayliss Ward, NCARB, AIA

2023-2024 NCARB Past President

When did you first become involved with NCARB, and what inspired you to give back to the profession?

I believe it was 18 years ago that I was introduced to NCARB by Tom Woods. After I attended my first Region 5 meeting, I thought it was time to give back to the profession and get involved with this organization.

Reflecting on your time as president, what are you most proud of achieving? Tell us about some of the major initiatives NCARB focused on during your presidency.

I am most proud of the major achievements that we, I mean all of us, have had. This is not an organization that is about one person's ideas or direction, but rather a team approach, and I feel that this way, NCARB gets the best out of everyone's input. I was fortunate to continue as the president of NCARB through a historic governance change in the organization, which is still being implemented today.

By looking into current NCARB policies, we found other unintentional impediments that we were able to change. These included revising the rolling clock, allowing candidates to continue the pathway to licensure or pick the process back up. We released six full-length, free practice exams. These exams have had a tremendous impact on underrepresented exam candidates, as well as other candidates, and the pass rate has increased by a very high percentage. We also explored the current licensing process and found possible negative impacts. So, we started two task forces to see if there is a better way in the future to include more people in the profession without reducing the rigor and while still protecting the public's health, safety, and welfare. One of those task forces was the Competency Task Force, and the other was the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force. These have turned out to be multi-year endeavors, and I am thankful that we have made significant changes in this amazing, forward-thinking organization.

How has NCARB evolved since you first volunteered?

NCARB has continued to be more proactive as an organization than reactive. I attribute this to the current CEO, Michael Armstrong, and his staff. It amazes me how everyone cares and contributes their efforts to the organization's work.

What are your expectations for the organization in the future, and how do you plan on staying involved?

I have faith that this organization will continue to do amazing work for the regulatory aspect of the architecture profession. I hope that the drive from all the individuals who work at NCARB does not diminish and that the team will continue to push the limits. NCARB has set the bar to an all-time high, and I don't feel they will let this slip below the current level.

I hope to continue to be involved in the organization because I think I can contribute to its current goals. I have had an experience with NCARB that I will never forget, nor one that I could ever have dreamed I would be a part of in my career.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

NCARB has more than a dozen standing committees, subcommittees, and task forces that meet throughout the year to review topics such as education, the AXP, the ARE, certification, and more. Made up of volunteers from across the profession—including members of state licensing boards, practicing architects, licensure candidates, and architectural alliance representatives—these groups help steer the organization by reflecting on our programs and policies and making recommendations for improvement. In FY24, NCARB had over 350 volunteers.

Standing Committees

Each year, NCARB's standing committees explore topics that are central to NCARB's mission, goals, and objectives. The purpose and existence of these committees are outlined in the NCARB Bylaws. When necessary, standing committees may have subcommittees or task forces that report to the standing committee.

CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

Members of the Credentials Committee oversee the nomination and election process for positions on the Board of Directors, verify candidate qualifications for office, examine and verify voting delegate credentials, report to the membership regarding quorum at the Annual Business Meeting, and tabulate and report election results to the president/chair of the Board. The Credentials Committee also contributes to the evolution of the nomination and elections process, provides feedback on existing procedures, and makes recommendations to the Board of Directors.

Report

Highlights

- As part of the committee's charges, they ensured that all candidates for the FY25 NCARB Board of Directors met the qualifications.
- The committee also gathered data to evaluate the Board service requirement of holding an NCARB Certificate and shared results and recommendations with the NCARB Board of Directors.
 - This charge ultimately led to a resolution that was passed by membership at the Annual Business Meeting, removing the Certificate requirement for architects serving in non-officer positions.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION COMMITTEE

Collaborative Purpose

The Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) Committee explores research and recommends strategies to increase the diversity of NCARB regional and national leadership to ensure that the organization fully represents the diversity of the population it serves.

Report

Highlights

- During fiscal year 2024, the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) Committee discussed the implementation of the governance resolution as requested.
- The committee also reviewed data related to fairness in licensure and provided recommendations for future research.
- In collaboration with NCARB staff, the committee contributed to the development of blogs that highlight the variety of experiences, career paths, and practitioners in the architecture profession.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

The Education Committee advises the Board on matters related to education and continuing education. It contributes to the development of programs and initiatives impacting architecture education and investigates shortcomings or opportunities in the education component of licensure.

Examples of initiatives include oversight of the NCARB Education Standard, education alternatives for NCARB Certification, Integrated Path to Architectural Licensure (IPAL), and life-long learning opportunities.

Report

Highlights

- Considering the future of education-related programs, Education Committee members collaborated with the Competency and Licensure Process Research & Development task forces. To further support the upcoming work of the Licensure Process R&D Task Force, and to develop a deeper understanding of the proposed multiple Pathways to Practice approach, the committee brainstormed what might be needed to achieve and demonstrate each competency in an education setting, or whether the competency could simply not be met in education.
- To support community colleges and students, committee members studied a variety of university curricula and developed a consensus model of content areas and the level of knowledge or ability recommended in each for entry (transfer) into the third year of accredited architecture programs.
- In the process of reviewing university curricula, the committee had observations and came to a consensus regarding several items for possible future consideration.
- Using the framework developed by the Competency Task Force, committee members compared the draft competencies to the NCARB Education Standard and the NAAB criteria. The competencies were found to have strong correlation to the Competency Standard and criteria.

- Committee members identified NCARB education policies that may need modification to integrate evolving processes suggested by the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force.
- As part of a joint charge, committee members collaborated with the Experience and Examination committees to address and identify requirements for a paraprofessional credential. Members of all three committees worked together in breakout groups to discuss licensure (as regulated by jurisdictions) versus certification (as awarded by NCARB) for paraprofessionals, then shared ideas for future credentialing. It is believed that there is likely viability to a paraprofessional credential within architecture that establishes a milestone for licensure candidates on their path to licensure. It is recommended that this topic be discussed further after the future licensure process is defined to best determine what components of the future licensure process would support a meaningful paraprofessional credential.
- In support of the Integrated Path to Architectural Licensure (IPAL), committee members reviewed proposals to participate in IPAL and responded to recommendations for evolving the program.

CONTINUING EDUCATION SUBCOMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

Members of the Continuing Education Subcommittee contribute to the development and/or evaluation of continuing education-related initiatives. Examples include NCARB's continuing education programs and collaboration with the AIA to evaluate the HSW content of proposed seminars and tours for their national convention.

Report

- Committee members evaluated expiring NCARB Continuum Education products to determine if they should be renewed or retired, as well as course proposals for new continuing education (CE) courses.
- As needed, committee members reviewed new NCARB CE courses for readability, quality control, and to ensure course language adhered to standard guidelines for avoiding stereotypes and biases.
- Committee members explored the feasibility of Member Board approval of CE credits for NCARB-generated content. Members recommended that the current evaluation process should continue, as the AIA has an established system and the resources/workforce in place to handle the level of work required to determine approval of CE credit.
- Committee members also evaluated the feasibility of NCARB volunteers receiving HSW CE credits for committee work when appropriate and made the recommendation that the current policy as defined in the NCARB CE Guidelines and AIA CES Standards be maintained.

CERTIFICATION ALTERNATIVES REVIEW TEAM

Team Purpose

Members of the Certification Alternatives Review Team (CART) are responsible for evaluating NCARB Certificate Portfolios submitted in support of obtaining NCARB certification through the Education Alternative. This team is also responsible for reviewing dossiers and conducting interviews in support of applications for certification through the Tri-National Mutual Recognition Agreement. The review of all portfolios is performed virtually and independently through a workflow process.

Report

Highlights

- Architects' interest in obtaining NCARB certification through the Education Alternative's Certificate Portfolio path remained steady.
- Data indicates architects who are eligible for an evaluation of their education through the Education Evaluation Services for Architects (EESA) program increasingly forego the option, instead opting to complete full portfolios.
- The NCARB Certificate Portfolio Applicant Guide was updated to include additional suggested acceptable documentation to satisfy the requirements. The Certificate Portfolio system continues to evolve, improving the evaluators' experience to increase efficiency and transparency.

EXAMINATION COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

The Examination Committee oversees the research initiatives related to the development, delivery, and assessment of the ARE for use by all 55 licensing boards. This committee is composed of the chairs of the ARE subcommittees and task forces, as well as a limited number of at-large appointees necessary to provide insight from the perspective of educators, recently licensed, and the public.

Report

Highlights

- The FY24 Examination Committee completed six charges during the year, beginning with a review of exam eligibility language in NCARB Model Law to assess opportunities to improve exam access.
 - The committee proposed a resolution to allow exam eligibility upon completion of high school. NCARB's Board of Directors agreed to move the resolution forward to the FY24 Annual Business Meeting, where it was approved by the membership.
- The Examination Committee also spent time analyzing the current exam objectives against the competency framework that was in development at that time by the Competency Task Force. The Examination Committee identified areas where the current ARE may be out of alignment with the future NCARB Competency Standard for Architects, recommending opportunities to better align future iterations of the exam.
- In addition, the committee evaluated current case studies on the ARE for potential opportunities to improve their effectiveness. Committee members agreed on the value of case studies and recommended further research to better define a new format.
- The Examination Committee also reviewed annual exam and item type performance data; engaged in a blue-sky discussion on trends in the testing industry, including untimed exams; and collaborated with the Experience Committee for a discussion on paraprofessional credentials.

ARE 5.0 FORMS ASSEMBLY SUBCOMMITTEE

Subcommittee Purpose

The ARE 5.0 Forms Assembly Subcommittee is responsible for quality control of the assembled exam forms to be delivered to ARE 5.0 candidates, as well as reviewing newly authored items to be used on these forms.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the ARE 5.0 Forms Assembly Subcommittee completed several ARE quality control review assignments to prepare new test forms for delivery to ARE 5.0 candidates, so that all items delivered to candidates are properly formatted.
- The subcommittee also ensured that all items aligned to the ARE item writing standards and that assembled exam forms didn't contain overlapping items or cue other items within the same form.

ARE 5.0 ITEM AND CASE STUDY REVIEW TASK FORCE

Subcommittee Purpose

The ARE 5.0 Item and Case Study Review Task Force is responsible for ensuring all item and case study content within the ARE, Business Continuity Exam (BCE) and ARE practice exams are valid and in alignment with current exam development and delivery standards. As part of the task force, members review and edit items and case studies across multiple ARE divisions.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the ARE 5.0 Item and Case Study Review Task Force reviewed the ARE, Business Continuity Exam (BCE), and ARE practice exam items for compliance with current ARE and industry standards.
- Members reviewed ARE, BCE, and ARE practice exam item maintenance recommendations and updated and retired items as appropriate.
- Members also reviewed case study resource maintenance recommendations and implemented or modified as appropriate.

ARE 5.0 ITEM DEVELOPMENT SUBCOMMITTEE

Subcommittee Purpose

The ARE 5.0 Item Development Subcommittee developed and reviewed individual items and case study items for both the operational ARE and the new ARE practice exams.

Report

Highlights

- At the start of FY24, committee members participated in focused training sessions on ARE item writing standards and test development best practices.
- The subcommittee received assignments to create new discrete and case study items, supporting the continuous replenishment of the exam pool.
- During committee meetings, volunteers conducted peer reviews to refine items from homework assignments, previously developed items, and those authored during the FY24 Item Development Workshops, ensuring content validity and relevance.
- Frequent virtual sessions facilitated by NCARB staff helped volunteers stay connected and aligned with the subcommittee's goals throughout the year.

EXPERIENCE COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

Members of the Experience Committee contribute to the development of programs and initiatives impacting the architecture experience requirement, including the development of the AXP.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the Experience Committee worked to identify potential methods to confirm competency and approve AXP experience requirements without the requirement for direct supervision.
- Committee members also reviewed experience policies that may need to be modified to integrate evolving processes suggested by the Licensure Process Research & Development Task Force.
- Using the framework developed by the Competency Task Force, members identified competency misalignments in the current AXP.
- The Experience Committee also collaborated with the Education and Examination committees to address and identify requirements for a potential paraprofessional credential.

MEMBER BOARD EXECUTIVES COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

Members of the Member Board Executives Committee consider issues of concern to the licensing boards and Member Board Executives, develop the agenda for the Spring MBE Workshop, and serve as a focus group for the Board of Directors and Council staff.

Report

Highlights

- The FY24 Member Board Executives Committee successfully developed and reported out the quality of the NCARB transmittals.
- Committee members successfully planned and executed the Member Board Executives (MBE) Workshop.
- The committee continued the development of the MBE model operations guide.
- Committee members also developed, executed, and reported out feedback regarding how jurisdictions manage discipline.

POLICY ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

The Policy Advisory Committee reviews proposed resolutions, procedures, and documents for their impact on and consistency with Council policies and programs and makes recommendations on such matters to the Board of Directors. The committee also assesses the usefulness of special Council publications and modifies them as appropriate.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the Policy Advisory Committee completed a multi-year project to review policy resolutions previously passed by the membership, which resulted in two omnibus resolutions to sunset resolutions passed between 1960 and 1979 (Resolution 2024-01) and before 1960 (Resolution 2024-02). The membership approved both resolutions at the 2024 Annual Business Meeting.
- In addition, committee members supported the resolutions to update the Mutual Recognition Agreement with Australia and New Zealand and the Tri-National Agreement with Canada and Mexico and served as advocates at the Annual Business Meeting.

PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

The purpose of the Professional Conduct Committee (PCC) is to oversee the development, application, assessment, and adjudication of Council policies relating to the professional conduct of Council Record holders and others using Council services.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the Professional Conduct Committee completed reviews of more than 20 non-exam breach cases with varying levels of complexity requiring deliberation in multiple monthly Zoom sessions. The PCC also reviewed several complicated exam breach cases.
- The PCC worked with input from legal counsel and in accordance with NCARB's Bylaws, exam candidate conduct policies, and the Professional Conduct Committee: Rules of Procedure to determine appropriate disciplinary sanctions, if any, for all cases.
- Additionally, PCC members reviewed conduct and discipline language in NCARB documents and recommended updates for clarification and currency, and provided more detailed language regarding an individual's opportunity to appeal a decision made by the PCC and/or NCARB Board of Directors.

REGIONAL LEADERSHIP COMMITTEE

Committee Purpose

The Regional Leadership Committee addresses issues specific to the regions of the Council, plans the Spring Regional Summit, and provides input into the planning and development of additional membership engagement efforts.

This committee also reviews each resolution submitted by regions and Member Boards for conformity with the Council Bylaws and may recommend to the author of any resolution such changes as are deemed advisable for the purpose of clarity and to avoid duplication.

Report

Highlights

- The committee was charged with exploring options for gaining greater visibility into Board actions as leadership development opportunities and led several engagements throughout the year, including an engagement with the Board of Directors at the Committee Summit.
- Committee members supported the Council's ongoing governance transition as needed.
- Members also continued the development of a recruitment strategy for the regional leadership pipeline.
- The committee planned and led the annual Regional Summit.

SPECIAL INITIATIVES

In addition to its standing committees, NCARB's leadership creates other volunteer groups to explore current issues and evaluate emerging trends as necessary. These groups—whose work can span anywhere between a single year and several—take on topics ranging from exploring the future of the profession to providing suggestions on the path to licensure.

COMPETENCY TASK FORCE

Task Force Purpose

NCARB assembled the Competency Task Force to explore a new licensure framework that integrates more pathways to practice architecture, respects the diversity of applicants, and considers different methodologies for demonstrating competence to practice.

Report

Highlights

- Throughout the year, members continued efforts to validate and refine a comprehensive standard that properly describes the necessary competencies for a qualified individual licensed to practice architecture across NCARB's member jurisdictions.
- The task force oversaw the completion of an industry validation survey—capturing feedback from nearly 5,000 respondents.
- Using the data collected, the task force refined the drafted competencies and socialized updated competency statements with members.

FUTURES COLLABORATIVE

Collaborative Purpose

The Futures Collaborative monitors and researches changes in the regulatory environment and the practice of architecture. Its efforts will inform ongoing development, forecasting possible future outcomes and strategic conversations across the Council.

Report

Highlights

- In FY24, the collaborative hosted an inaugural Futures Symposium in Washington, DC, expanding its conversations and bringing together subject matter experts to explore cutting-edge trends in the profession.
- In May 2024, the Futures Collaborative hosted the Space Architecture Roundtable, a virtual roundtable bringing volunteers and industry innovators to discuss their efforts to emphasize architects' value in designing space habitats.

INTERNATIONAL QUALIFICATIONS EVALUATION WORK GROUP

Work Group Purpose

NCARB assembled the International Qualifications Evaluation Work Group in response to increased global presence and participation between the U.S. and foreign countries to complete evaluation assessments to determine if there are significant similarities in the competencies required at the point of licensure.

Report

Highlights

- Over the year, the work group completed comparative evaluations of competency requirements and pathways for licensure between NCARB and three international regulatory bodies.
- These evaluations led to the revision of two Mutual Recognition Agreements (MRAs), with resolutions passed at the 2024 Annual Business Meeting.

LICENSURE PROCESS RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT TASK FORCE

Task Force Purpose

The Licensure Process Research and Development Task Force was established to identify how NCARB licensure programs can be envisioned to best support licensure candidates and jurisdictional licensing boards while continuing to ensure public protection.

Report

Highlights

- The task force continued research efforts, with a focus on best assessment methods to validate competency within architecture.
- Through several engagements, members narrowed focus to a half dozen assessment methods that embrace various ways to demonstrate competency.
- Members also began envisioning how to structure the variety of assessment tools within the licensure process.

REGIONAL REALIGNMENT WORK GROUP

Work Group Purpose

FY24 President Jon Baker assembled the Regional Realignment Work Group to further explore membership feedback regarding NCARB's regional structure and to provide recommendations to the Board of Directors on the next steps.

Report

Highlights

- Over the year, the work group explored regional biases, the value of regions, and conducted several surveys to gather member feedback.
- Through the work group's discussions and findings, they identified areas for further study and opportunities for existing regions to improve and provide more consistency for Member Boards.
- The workgroup recommended a five-region map that distributed the Member Boards between the regions more equally, which became Resolution 2024-07. This resolution was not passed by NCARB's membership at the Annual Business Meeting.

WORKFORCE READINESS WORK GROUP

Work Group Purpose

NCARB assembled the Workforce Readiness Work Group, comprised of practitioners and educators, to identify the essential knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) needed for entry-level architectural firm positions. Members collaborate with an independent research company, Data Recognition Corporation (DRC), to help define these requirements and ensure the validity of the research.

Report

Highlights

- As part of the work group's charges, members oversaw the completion of a job task analysis to identify the necessary knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) for success in an early-level position in an architectural firm.
- Based on findings after conducting a nationwide survey, the workgroup refined a final list of KSAs and established guidance on when educational institutions should consider incorporating findings into their curriculum plan.

COMMITTEE SUMMIT

Each year, hundreds of volunteers—including licensure candidates, architects, educators, and other professionals—help NCARB develop and maintain its major programs and initiatives. In early December 2023, NCARB volunteers gathered in Washington, DC, for the organization’s annual Committee Summit.

Each of NCARB’s volunteer groups focuses on a different aspect of the organization’s work—from candidate-focused programs like the ARE to internal items like NCARB’s policy and governance documents. The annual Committee Summit is designed to give volunteers the opportunity to see how their work aligns with the rest of NCARB’s efforts, providing a holistic understanding of each program or project.

During this year’s summit, members of various committees focused on engaging in joint sessions and exploring how their charges relate to each other. Volunteers and members also joined for the inaugural Futures Symposium, a day of presentations and discussion on future trends in the profession and their potential impact on regulation.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

Board of Directors
National Council of Architectural Registration Boards

Report on the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying consolidated financial statements of National Council of Architectural Registration Boards and Lineup Management Services, LLC (collectively, the "Council"), which comprise the consolidated statements of financial position as of June 30, 2024 and 2023, and the related consolidated statements of activities, functional expenses, and cash flows for the years then ended, and the related notes to the consolidated financial statements.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Council as of June 30, 2024 and 2023, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Council and to meet our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Consolidated Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Council's ability to continue as a going concern for one year after the date the consolidated financial statements are available to be issued.

National Council of Architectural Registration Boards

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the consolidated financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the consolidated financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Council's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the consolidated financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Council's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JUNE 30, 2024 AND 2023

NOTE 1 NATURE OF ACTIVITIES AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Nature of Operations

National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) is a nonprofit organization of individual architectural registration boards. The general purpose of NCARB is to protect the public health, safety, and welfare by leading the regulation of the practice of architecture through the development and application of standards for licensure and credentialing of architects.

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the accounts of NCARB and five of its regional conferences. NCARB authorizes these five regional conferences to use its taxpayer identification number in conjunction with operating and managing the activities of the regional conferences. The net assets and operations of these five regional conferences have been included in NCARB's operations for purposes of financial and tax reporting.

During the year ended June 30, 2019, Lineup Management Services, LLC (Lineup) was formed as a single member limited liability company with NCARB as its sole member. The purpose of Lineup is to develop and sell a software tool designed to help organizations better manage the skills and demographics of work teams.

A summary of NCARB's significant accounting policies follows:

Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of National Council of Architectural Registration Boards, inclusive of council regions one, two, four, five and six (see Note 10), and Lineup Management Services, LLC, collectively, referred to as the "Council". Significant intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

Basis of Presentation

The consolidated financial statement presentation follows the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Codification (ASC). As required by the Not-for-Profit Entities Topic of the FASB ASC, the Council is required to report information regarding its financial position and activities according to two classes of net assets: without donor restrictions and with donor restrictions. As of and for the years ended June 30, 2024 and 2023, there were no net assets with donor restrictions.

Net Assets Without Donor Restrictions, Undesignated – Net assets held by the Council and its regional conferences whose use is not restricted by donors or internally designated for other uses.

Net Assets Without Donor Restrictions, Designated – Net assets consisting of funds designated by the board of directors (the Board) to be used for specific purposes. The Business Development Fund was created to support the development and sale of proprietary software products to third parties. Since the inception of the Business Development Fund, a cumulative amount of $4,000,000 and $3,838,149 has been expended for this purpose through June 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.

Income Tax Status

NCARB is exempt from income taxes on its exempt activities under the provisions of Section 501(c)(6) of the Internal Revenue Code. However, NCARB is subject to income taxes on any unrelated business income. For the years ended June 30, 2024 and 2023, NCARB had unrelated business income from Lineup software sales of $447,458 and $431,182, respectively. As a single member limited liability company, Lineup does not file a separate income tax return and its activities are included in NCARB's tax returns. Thus, Lineup is treated as a disregarded entity for income tax purposes.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (U.S. GAAP) requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

For consolidated financial statement purposes, the Council considers all checking accounts, overnight repurchase agreements, money market funds, and highly liquid investments with original maturities of 90 days or less to be cash and cash equivalents except for money market funds held in the investment portfolio. At times, certain balances held within these accounts may not be fully guaranteed or insured by the U.S. federal government. The Council has not experienced any such losses in the past and does not believe it is exposed to any significant financial risk on these cash balances.

Overnight repurchase agreements involve investment risks, including the possible loss of principal. The mortgage-backed securities bought and sold daily are collateralized by one or more pools of residential mortgage loans that conform to the standards of the Federal National Mortgage Association or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation at the time of securitization. The Council had $1,814,724 and $2,668,072 in its overnight repurchase agreements account at June 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.

Investments

Investments with readily determinable fair values are reflected at fair value. To adjust the carrying value of these investments, the change in fair value is recorded to investment return net of related fees on the consolidated statements of activities. The Council invests funds in a professionally managed portfolio that contains various securities. Such investments are exposed to market and credit risks. Thus, the Council's investments may be subject to significant fluctuations in fair value. As a result, the investment balances reported in these consolidated financial statements may not be reflective of the portfolio's value during subsequent periods.

Investment Income

Interest and dividends are reported as operating activities, while the current year changes in fair value of investments (realized and unrealized gains and losses) are reported as nonoperating activities. Investment fees are netted with interest and dividends income in the consolidated statements of activities.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable consist primarily of registration fees for the Council's annual meeting. Accounts receivable are presented at the net amount due to the Council. The Council's management periodically reviews the status of all accounts receivable balances for collectibility. Each receivable balance is assessed based on management's knowledge of the customer, the Council's relationship with the customer, and the age of the receivable balance. Based on management's assessment, there are no uncollectible receivables as of June 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.

Property, Equipment, and Capitalized Software

Acquisitions of property, equipment, and capitalized software greater than $5,000 are recorded at cost and depreciated using the straight-line method over their respective useful lives, ranging from 3 to 10 years. Leasehold improvements are amortized on a straight-line method over the shorter of the lease term or estimated useful life of the asset. Capitalized Architect Registration Examination (ARE) development costs are amortized on a straight-line method over an estimated useful life of five years.

Impairment Policy

Long-lived assets are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of long-lived assets is measured by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset to future undiscounted net cash flows expected to be generated by the asset. If such assets are considered to be impaired, the impairment to be recognized is measured by the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the estimated fair value of the assets. Assets to be disposed of are reportable at the lower of the carrying amount or fair value, less costs to sell. During the years ended June 30, 2024 and 2023, management did not consider the value of any property or equipment or intangible assets to be impaired.

Leases

The Council determines if an arrangement is a lease at inception. Operating leases are included in right-of-use (ROU) assets – operating and lease liability – operating, and finance leases are included in ROU assets – financing and lease liability – financing in the statements of financial position.

ROU assets represent the Council's right to use an underlying asset for the lease term and lease liabilities represent the Council's obligation to make lease payments arising from the lease. ROU assets and liabilities are recognized at the lease commencement date based on the present value of lease payments over the lease term. Lease terms may include options to extend or terminate the lease when it is reasonably certain that the Council will exercise that option. Lease expense for operating lease payments is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term. The Council has elected to recognize payments for short-term leases with a lease term of 12 months or less as expense as incurred and these leases are not included as lease liabilities or right of use assets on the statements of financial position.

The Council has elected to use a risk-free discount rate, commensurate with the term of the lease, to determine the present value of the lease payments for each lease agreement. In addition, the Council has elected not to separate nonlease components from lease components and instead accounts for each separate lease component and the nonlease component as a single lease component.

Revenue Recognition

The Council's activities are primarily supported through customer relations income, examination income and member board dues. Prices charged to customers are specific to distinct performance obligations and do not consist of multiple transactions. Economic factors are driven by consumer confidence, employment, inflation and other world events that impact the timing and level of cash received and revenue recognized by the Council. Periods of economic downturn resulting from any of the above factors may result in declines in future cash flows and recognized revenue of the Council.

The Council did not have any impairment or credit losses on any receivables or contract assets arising from contracts with customers. There are also no incremental costs of obtaining a contract and no significant financing components. Finally, there are no significant changes in the judgments affecting the determination of the amount and timing of revenue from contracts with customers.

Customer Relations Income

Revenue from the Council's customer relations income includes services performed by the Council related to the creation, maintenance and transmittal of records for registered architects and architect licensure candidates. Fees paid by the customer are nonrefundable and paid in advance for each transaction. Income related to the creation of records is recognized at the point in time when the customer has access to their record. Income related to annual renewals of records is recognized at the point in time when the previous customer record has expired. Income related to transmittals is recognized at the point in time when the record has been transmitted to the designated architectural authority.

Examination Income

Revenue associated with the ARE is recognized at the point in time when registrants take the divisions of the examination (including no-shows) or when the allowable exam scheduling period has lapsed. Revenue and the related third-party exam administration fees are reported at gross based on a contractual agreement, which requires the Council to withhold and pay fees from the amounts collected from the candidates.

Member Board Dues

Member board dues are billed annually in advance of the membership period which coincides with the Council's fiscal year (July 1 to June 30). Dues revenue is recognized during the fiscal year of the membership. Member benefits are not available individually outside of membership. Member benefits include the development and delivery of the ARE for the member jurisdiction's licensure candidates; administration of the Architectural Experience Program (AXP); administration of the architect/licensure candidate record development, credential verification and electronic transmittal process, which facilitates the licensure process; access to a database of disciplinary actions taken against architects around the country; development of and access to regulatory tools and advocacy resources to help navigate the current licensing environment and funding for authorized member board staff to attend certain meetings held by the Council. All member benefits are considered one performance obligation, given that benefits are accessible to the member throughout the term of membership.

Deferred Revenue

Deferred revenue consists primarily of cash received for record renewals and examination registrations, which have been received in advance of the record expiration date and examination date, respectively.

Contract Balances

The timing of revenue recognition may not align with the right to invoice the customer. The Council records accounts receivable when it has the unconditional right to issue an invoice and receive payment, regardless of whether revenue has been recognized. If revenue has not yet been recognized, a contract liability (deferred revenue) is also recorded. If revenue is recognized in advance of the right to invoice, a contract asset (unbilled receivable) is recorded. Opening contract balances as of July 1, 2022, consisted of $12,870 of accounts receivable and $2,856,519 of deferred revenue.

NOTE 1 NATURE OF ACTIVITIES AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (CONTINUED)

Functional Allocation of Expenses

The costs of providing various programs and other activities of the Council have been summarized on a functional basis in the consolidated statements of activities and consolidated statements of functional expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited. Salaries and benefits are allocated based on estimates of the percentage of the employee time spent on relevant activities as determined by the annual budget. Rent and other overhead costs are allocated based on individual department headcounts.

Recently Adopted New Accounting Standard

In 2024, the Council adopted ASU 2016-13, Financial Instruments – Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments, as amended, which modifies the measurement of expected credit losses. The Council adopted this new guidance utilizing the modified retrospective transition method. The adoption of this standard did not have a material impact on the Council's consolidated financial statements but did change how the allowance for credit losses is determined.

Reclassifications

Certain reclassifications were made to the 2023 consolidated financial statements in order to conform to the 2024 presentation. These reclassifications had no effect on previously reported net asset amounts.

Subsequent Events

The Council has evaluated subsequent events through November 6, 2024, the date the consolidated financial statements were available to be issued.

NOTE 2 LIQUIDITY

The Council strives to maintain liquid financial assets sufficient to cover approximately 60 days of general expenditures. Financial assets in excess of daily cash requirements are invested in money market funds, certificates of deposit and other short-term investments.

The Board-designated funds are intended to fund specific initiatives not considered in the annual operating budget. In the event the need arises to utilize the Board-designated funds for liquidity purposes, the reserves could be drawn upon through Board resolution.

NOTE 4 FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENTS

The Fair Value Measurement Topic of the ASC defines fair value as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date and sets out a fair value hierarchy. The fair value hierarchy gives the highest priority to quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (Level 1) and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs (Level 3). Inputs are broadly defined under this topic as assumptions market participants would use in pricing an asset or liability.

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the reporting entity has the ability to access at the measurement date. As required by the Fair Value Measurement Topic, the Council does not adjust the quoted prices for these investments even in situations where the Council holds a large position, and a sale could reasonably impact the quoted price.

Level 2 – Inputs other than quoted prices within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly, and fair value is determined through the use of models or other valuation methodologies. A significant adjustment to a Level 2 input could result in the Level 2 measurement becoming a Level 3 measurement.

Level 3 – Inputs that are unobservable for the asset or liability and include situations where there is little, if any, market activity for the asset or liability. The inputs into the determination of fair value are based upon the best information in the circumstances and may require significant management judgment or estimation. There were no Level 3 inputs for any assets or liabilities held by the Council at June 30, 2024 and 2023.

As a practical expedient, the Council is permitted to estimate fair value of an investment using the reported net asset value (NAV) without further adjustment unless the Council expects to sell the investment at a value other than NAV or if the NAV is not calculated in accordance with U.S. GAAP. Management monitors the reports provided by fund managers and believes their estimates of value to be fair approximations of the exit price for these investments.

The following is a summary of the input levels used to determine fair values at June 30:

Certain cash and cash equivalents and certificates of deposit included in the investment portfolio (see Note 3 for totals) are not subject to the provisions of fair value measurements as they are recorded at cost.

Investments classified in Level 2 were valued by pricing vendors using outside data. In determining the fair value of the investments, the pricing vendors use a market approach to obtain pricing spreads based on the credit risk of the issuer, maturity, current yield and other terms and conditions of each security. Management believes the estimated fair values of assets classified in Level 2 to be a reasonable approximation of the exit price for these investments. The deferred compensation liabilities are based on the fair value of the deferred compensation assets, which are observable inputs; however, the liabilities are not publicly traded and are, therefore, considered Level 2 items.

The following presents further information regarding the composition of the Council's investments measured under the NAV practical expedient at June 30:

	2024 Fair Value	2023 Fair Value	Unfunded Commitments
Alternative Investments:
Alkeon Growth Offshore Fund, Ltd. ¹	$ 1,023,383	$ 747,393	$ -

- 1) Alkeon Growth Offshore Fund Ltd.'s investment objective is to achieve maximum capital appreciation. The fund pursues this objective by investing its assets primarily in equity securities of U.S. and foreign companies that the investment manager believes are well positioned to benefit from demand for their products or services, including companies that can innovate or grow rapidly relative to their peers in their markets. Redemptions are permitted quarterly with 20 calendar days' notice.
- 2) Hudson Bay International Fund Ltd.'s investment objective is to target traditional and nontraditional sources of alpha by employing a diverse set of catalyst-driven absolute return strategies that are intended to be uncorrelated to each other and to the major indices. In deploying its trading and investing strategies, the fund expects to hold both long and short positions in a broad range of debt and equity securities, derivatives, and other financial instruments on a global basis. Generally, upon at least 65 days' prior written notice to the fund's administrator, a shareholder may redeem up to 25%, 33.33%, 50% and 100%, respectively, of its redemption date value as of any four successive calendar quarter-ends (such as 25%, 33.33%, 50% and 100% amounts, the applicable percentage for a particular redemption date).

NOTE 7 RETIREMENT PLANS

The Council has a 457(b) salary deferral plan for key executives. As part of the plan, the Council reports assets and liabilities of equal amounts attributable to the amount deferred and the related investment earnings. Information regarding the Council's invested assets of deferred compensation is disclosed in Note 3 and the fair value of the deferred compensation assets and liability is disclosed in Note 4. The balance in the deferred compensation plan is $813,880 and $688,370 at June 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.

The Council maintains a defined contribution 401(k) retirement plan (the Plan) for employees. Employees are immediately eligible to contribute a percentage of their compensation to the Plan. The Plan provides qualified non-elective contributions of 3% of employee compensation. The Plan also provides for self-directed investments by employees. The Council may make annual discretionary contributions to the Plan. In order to be eligible for this discretionary contribution, an employee must complete six months of service before a plan entry date (January 1 or July 1), must complete 500 hours of service during the plan year, and must be actively employed on the last day of the plan year (December 31). Employees begin vesting in the discretionary contribution at the end of their second year of service, fully vesting at the end of six years of service. The Council made qualified nonelective contributions of $825,392 and $762,479, respectively, and discretionary contributions of $0 and $145,000, respectively, for the years ended June 30, 2024 and 2023.

NOTE 8 OPERATING LEASES

The Council leases office space, mailing, copying and computer equipment under noncancellable operating leases.

In March 2019, the Council entered into an office lease at 1401 H Street NW, Washington, DC. The lease extends through February 2034. The new lease contains various incentives such as 24 months of abated rent and a tenant improvement allowance.

The Council incurred rental expense of $1,339,672 and $1,315,895 for the years ended June 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.

The Council implemented Accounting Standards Codification 842, Leases, for the year ended June 30, 2023, and has elected to apply the provisions of this standard to the beginning of that period. This new standard increases transparency and comparability among organizations by requiring the recognition of ROU asset and lease liabilities for its office lease, which is presented in the accompanying consolidated statements of financial position.

Future minimum lease payments, exclusive of the Council's pro rata share of additional operating expenses, under noncancelable office space leases at June 30, 2024, are as follows:

Year Ending June 30,	Amount
2025	$ 1,732,470
